Jackson Authorities Act Against Three Guards at State Prison.

21 JOHN DOES LISTED

Linked to Death of Penitentiary Officer Some Time Ago.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 26 — The "war of extermination" on the Black legion brought 25 warrants charging kidnaping and felonious assault in Jackson today against members of the secret hooded order accused of stripping and flogging a relief worker who refused to join.

Acting with speed that matched that of authorities of Detroit in charging 13 members with the slaying of Charles A. Poole, Prosecutor Owen Dudley of Jackson, swore out warrants today against three guards at the southern Michigan prison, a resident of Norvelle, and 21 "John Does" accused of participation in the beating last Nov. 5 of Harley Smith, father of five children.

The men accused are Ray Ernest, said by Dudley to be a "brigadier general" in the terrorists' band, his brothers Glenn and Clarence, and Allen Bascom. The Ernest brothers are guards at the prison.

The men, held at the state police post in Jackson for investigation in the death of Paul Every, another prison guard, will be arraigned today, Dudley said.

Acting on suspicion that fire which destroyed a barn and outbuildings on the estate of George Noon near Jackson might have been the result of Black legion arson, state police sped to the scene a short time after they had disrupted an attempt by six carloads of vigilantes to conduct a meeting in the woods near there.

In Oakland county, (Pontiac), officers reopened the unsolved slaying of Howard Curtis, whose body was found near Milford late in 1934.

Head Cut From Body

The body, a bullet wound in the back of the head, which had been severed from the body, was found in a clump of bushes by a hunter. The clothing had been set afire.

A resident of the neighborhood said she had heard screams from the direction of the field several days earlier, and had seen three men in a touring car drive away.

Wayne county authorities today raided five homes in the down river district here and found what they claimed was evidence that two recent bombings in Ecorse were inspired by the black robed band.

In the homes, which included those of two former Ecorse councilmen, the raiders seized fire arms and literature of the organization.

Harry Colburn, chief investigator for Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, claimed "positive information" about dictatorship aspirations of Black legion leaders, and said important revelations might be made today.

Colburn also disclosed that seven deaths in the Detroit area in recent years, one of a radical, were being scrutinized for possible connection with alleged terrorist activities of the night-riding order.

Arthur F. Lupp, described by his attorney as "chief recruiting officer" for the Black legion, denied, however, that the society believed in taking the law into its own hands. Lupp submitted to

TROOPS MAY GO TO STRIKE ZONE

Leader Says Union Will "Not Yield an Inch" in Demand for Bargaining Rights.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 26—Possibility of national guard intervention hung over Portsmouth today as the Wheeling Steel Corp. paid off employes at its downtown offices and federal authorities admitted mediation in the four-day-old strike affecting 5,500 workers appeared remote.

Two national guard officers were sent here by Gov. Martin L. Davey and Adj. General Emil Marx to determine if the strikers' request for protection by troops should be heeded.

Sporadic fights, with more than a score of men treated for minor injuries, marked the walkout.

Faced With Deadlock

"The situation is at a deadlock," declared R. M. Pilkington, federal conciliator sent here by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. He reported after separate meetings with strike leaders and company officials that it probably would be "several days" before tension had eased sufficiently to attempt to get the factions together.

Richard Evans, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, which struck on the contention that its bargaining rights under the national labor relations act were not respected, declared the union "would not yield an inch."

C. C. Caudill, general manager of the Wheeling plant here, reiterated that the company would sign no contract with the union.

Pay Off Downtown

Caudill said heavy picket lines about the plant necessitated the company meeting its semi-monthly payroll at the downtown offices. Almost all the 5,500 workers involved had pay coming for work prior to Friday night, when the strike took effect.

Evans said the pickets were not even permitting mail trucks to enter the plant because of the belief they were taking food in to the nearly 200 office workers and other employes who had remained inside to complete necessary tasks.

BLAZE SUBDUED AFTER FIVE DIE

All Crew Members Accounted for After Checking of Jersey Forest Fire.

CALLED WORST IN HISTORY

Flames Battled on Wide Front for 48 Hours by 750 Firefighters.

By The Associated Press

NEW GRETNA, N. J., May 26—A south Jersey forest fire, in which five men lost their lives, was brought under control today after more than 750 men fought it on a wide front for 48 hours.

As the fire was brought under control a final check of the crews showed that all were accounted for. At one time a number of CCC workers had been reported missing but they were found on the fire lines.

Only one danger spot remained near Manahawkin and men were rushed there by truck to meet the threat. The state forest fighting service called the fire "the worst in its history," and estimated it had ravaged 15,000 acres. The dead:

John T. LaSalle, 20, of New Brunswick; Edward F. Sullivan, 20, of New Brunswick; Stanley Carr, 22, of Waretown; Kingsley White, 35, of Whitesville; Ira Morey, of West Creek.

Two fire wardens, Benjamin Broome and Henry Updyke, both of New Gretna, reported missing, were found unhurt as searching parties began a hunt through the still-smouldering woodlands for possible further victims.

Earlier today the firefighters thought they had won their battle when they made a last stand in front of Tuckerton, 16 miles from where the fire started, and saved the town. Fire apparatus came from as far as Atlantic City, 20 miles distant.

Before that the fire had eaten away on three fronts and all but one had been believed definitely under control. That one, moving southward toward New Gretna, was the one which turned on Tuckerton.

The fire swept through a triangular area of more than 80 square miles of scrub pines.

Eight men were taken to hospitals, where their condition was described as "fair."

More than 50 youths from five CCC camps and at least 250 volunteer firemen from a dozen departments joined the regular forest wardens in the fight.

NEW TRIAL ASKED BY FRANK BROTHERS

Former Marion Man Files Motion Following Conviction in Columbus.

Frank L. Brothers, former Marion man, today asked a new trial in common pleas court at Columbus on a charge of embezzling $13,000 from the state conservation division while he was its chief accountant, The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Columbus.

Brothers was convicted last week and is free on bond pending outcome of his efforts to get a new trial.

His attorneys contended in the motion that the trial judge erred in submitting to the jury two possible verdicts of guilty instead of one for conviction and one for acquittal. The motion also held that the verdict resulted from "passion and preudice."

STRIKERS STAGE RIOTS

LOS ANGELES, May 26—Sheriff's cars patrolled county vegetable fields today to forestall further gun fights between strikers and workers in which three men have been wounded.

TWO TOWNSEND LEADERS ALSO REFUSE TO TESTIFY

Chicagoan and New York Minister Ignore Call To Appear Before House Investigators.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Dr. F. E. Townsend's defiant attitude toward a house investigating committee was emulated today by two of his old age pension leaders who failed to appear when they were called for questioning.

Chairman Bell, Democrat of Missouri, called for John Kiefer of Chicago, and Rev. Clinton Wunder of New York, when he opened today's hearing. Neither answered.

Bell noted for the record that both were under subpoena to appear today before the committee. The chairman then told newsmen a closed session of the committee this morning failed to change the situation in regard to action against Dr. Townsend for his walkout last Thursday and refusal to testify further.

In a surprise move, Bell then called Rep. McGroarty, Democrat of California, one-time leader of the house Townsend bloc.

Questioning of McGroarty developed that he introduced bills embodying the principles of the Townsend plan for a transaction tax to raise funds for a $200 monthly pension to the aged.

Since Dr. Townsend walked out on the committee last Thursday afternoon with a flat refusal to testify further and an announcement he would not return unless under arrest, the committee has been considering citing him for contempt.

The possibility of still further delay was indicated with the committee still at odds over whether Dr. Townsend should be tried before the bar of the house or the whole matter turned over to a federal court.

Socialists Draft Platform After Naming Thomas

Nominee Tells Delegates Party Fights Both Republicans and Democrats.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 26—Delegates to the Socialist national convention, weary from three days of heated debate and intra-party controversy, assembled today to adopt the party's 1936 platform—admonished by Norman Thomas, its presidential nominee for the third successive time "to win men and women to a new hope and a new way of life." Thomas is a former Marion man.

In his formal speech of acceptance following his nomination yesterday Thomas assailed the Roosevelt administration as having failed and predicted the Republican party would have "nothing positive to offer."

Fight Both Parties

"It is a great thing we dare to do," Thomas told the convention banquet last night. "We oppose the massed resources of Republican captains of industry, the political power and the public purse in possession of the Democrats, facing them with the might of a great faith, of a logical analysis of the diseases of our time and a sure philosophy for building the cooperative commonwealth in which is our hope."

Claiming "the new deal has not worked," Thomas said "there is not a single economist or social analyst of repute who dares to affirm that there are now in operation political and economic forces to make new war unlikely or the danger of fresh economic catastrophe remote."

"The Republicans," he continued, "will curse Roosevelt and the new deal with all the stupidity of French Bourbons who by some concessions might have prolonged their ignoble dynasty before the fall of the bastile. But they will have nothing positive to offer. They cannot agree on anything."

Nelson for Running Mate

George A. Nelson, a "dirt farmer" of Milltown, Wis., who was nominated for vice president, telegraphed the banquet a message of acceptance. At the convention it was explained that Nelson is "not possessed of too much earthly wealth and is a farmer who farms."

Nelson indorsed the action of the convention in, declining a united front with the Communist party and said he would conduct an active campaign.

Work on the platform was interrupted by previous arrangements for a national broadcast of the nomination of candidates for president and vice president.

Thomas, 1928 and 1932 presidential candidate, was nominated by Dr. Harry W. Laidler, chairman of the New York State Socialist party, as a "gallant and courageous fighter against capitalism and social injustice and America's foremost apostle of international Socialism."

Seconding speeches include those of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee and John Taylor, a member of the Toledo board of education. No other nomines was offered.

The mighty chorus of "yes" with

Thomas Resident Here Till 1901

Norman Thomas, who yesterday was nominated the Socialist party candidate for President for the third time, was born in Marion, the son of Rev. Welling E. Thomas, pastor of the First Presbyterian church for 17 years, the longest pastorate in the history of the church. Mr. Thomas lived in Marion until shortly after he was graduated from Marion High school in 1901, when the family moved to Lewisburg, Pa. He entered Princeton university as a theological student.

BRITISH BATTLE ARAB RIOTERS

Long-Smoldering Opposition to Jewish Influx In Holy Land Flares Into Fight.

FIGHT TWO ENGAGEMENTS

Disperse Mob In One Clash but Retreat In Other as Foes Move on Two Fronts.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, May 26 — The long-smoldering Holy Land Arab anti-Jewish disorders developed today into open, armed conflict between Arabs and British soldiers and police.

British forces, campaigning to restore order after 40 days of violence in which at least 50 persons have been killed, fought two engagements, dispersing a mob of 200 Arabs in one clash but withdrawing before an Arab advance in the other.

The British high commissioner for Palestine, Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, in an address at the Levant fair, warned terrorists: "No strike, no violence can deter the government from fulfilling its obligations under the League of Nations mandate."

Believed Temporary

The high commissioner expressed belief the Arab general strike and demonstrations against Jewish immigrations to the Holy Land were only temporary.

The conflict appeared to be spreading up and down the land Jesus of Nazareth once trod, however, as fresh reports of disorders came to the British administration.

Police were forced to retire from their positions at the foot of Mount Tabor, east of Nazareth, when their ammunition ran out early today after a long gunbattle.

PROPOSAL MADE TO BRING TEAM HERE

Ohio League President Expected in City Today To Discuss Proposition.

President Harry Smith of the Ohio State Baseball league was expected to come to Marion today to meet with persons interested in having a St. Louis Cards "farm" team located in Marion following its recent withdrawal from New Philadelphia.

Meanwhile, the Ohio State league plans to finish the first round of the season with teams at Tiffin, Fostoria, Fremont and Sandusky according to an Associated Press story today from Columbus in which President Smith was quoted. He said Mansfield withdrew temporarily but will rejoin the league under new ownership when plans are completed for placing a team at either Marion or Findlay.

SENATORS ACT TO PLUG LEAKS

EXTEND LIMITATION LAW

Committee Leader Labels Changes More Psychological Than Real in Effect.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26 — As Democratic members arranged to consult with President Roosevelt tonight on the tax bill, the senate finance committee today agreed definitely to tighten up provisions of existing law for penalty taxes on corporations "improperly accumulating surpluses."

The committee decided that every corporation which retains more than $15,000 of its income or more than 40 per cent of income, which ever is greater, shall be required to file a statement with its tax return setting forth the reason for accumulating the funds.

To Extend Limitations Statute

It agreed, too, to extend from three to four years the statute of limitations applicable in collection of high taxes on corporations which build up surpluses improperly for purposes of allowing stockholders to avoid surtaxes in the upper income brackets.

Acting Chairman King, Democrat of Utah, said the changes were "more psychology than realism" and that their effect would be to make large corporations a "little more careful in withholding" and to induce them to make bigger distributions of their earnings.

Earlier, the White House had announced that Democratic committeemen would confer with the President on the request of Chairman Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, who absented himself from the committee session today because of illness.

Final approval of the tax bill was regarded as certain to be held over at least until tomorrow.

Can't Reach Accord

The finance committee has been unable so far to reach an agreement on the revenue bill, although it has departed far from Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions for a new corporate tax system based on undistributed profits.

Both the revenue measure passed by the house and the plan so far molded by the finance group fall short of the President's request for $620,000,000 of permanent and $317,000,000 of temporary revenue.

Just before the White House conference was summoned, a finance subcommittee agreed unanimously to recommend against including a proposed tax of one-half cent a pound on sugar in the new tax bill.

Many Factors Involved

Subcommittee members said too many complicating factors were involved to permit carrying the excise levy in the revenue bill, even though it would raise around $86,000,000 and lift the total estimated yield of the measure to about the $620,000,000 of permanent funds requested by President Roosevelt.

Rep. Cummings, Democrat of Colorado, testified such a levy would place a $16,840,000 burden on farmers.

He urged that no action be taken on the sugar tax unless it were attached to a new bill to reestablish the sugar quota system.

Clarence J. Houry, representing the farmers' and manufacturers' Beet Sugar association, with members in Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Indiana, also protested against "singling out sugar."

189 City Teachers Rehired By Board for Next Year

Supt. Hudson Acts To Clear Up Misunderstanding That Develops Over New Salary Schedule

One hundred and eighty nine teachers principals and supervisors of the Marion public school system were reemployed by the city board of education at a meeting in the administration building yesterday afternoon

Five positions are yet to be filled Supt C A Hudson said

Those reemployed are to continue under the same schedule of adjusted salaries adopted by the board at its May 11 meeting when salary allowances were increased an average of 13 per cent adding approximately $20,145 to the school payroll

At yesterday's meeting Supt Hudson issued a formal statement to clear an apparent misunderstanding that developed over publication of a suggested salary schedule presented at the May 11 board meeting

The suggested schedule which set up proposed salary figures for teachers on the basis of their number of years of experience is only a table of salaries toward which the board is working and not the exact basis on which the salary adjustments made May 11 were fixed Supt Hudson said

Confusion Develops

Confusion over the schedule developed when teachers used it as a basis to figure out what salary to expect It was explained In many cases the amounts they figured on getting on the basis of the suggested schedule did not agree with the salaries the board fixed for them

The schedule was set up in order that there might be something definite toward which to work he said in the statement "Since there was a limited amount of money available for adjustments it was not possible to place every teacher at the exact place she would be if the schedule had been put into effect completely In other words the schedule is something toward which the board is working but was unable to attain with the amount of money available for distribution

In many instances considerable adjustment would have been necessary to have reached this schedule In such cases as much was given to the teacher as was advisable In other instances very little was necessary to reach the schedule In those cases this small amount was given to the teacher As a result of this effort teachers did not all get the same percentage of adjustment If another opportunity is given for adjustment doubtless it can be accomplished without much difficulty Future increases could then be made largely on a flat percentage basis"

Supt Hudson this morning emphasized that although the adjustments were made May 11 and were to be retroactive to Jan 1 1936 not one penny has yet been received by the teachers So far it has been merely a matter of information and record and the payment is yet to come in the future when tax settlements will be sufficiently large to warrant paying the teachers this extra compensation which they will receive in a lump sum

Position Created

The board yesterday created the position of full time visiting teacher and appointed Miss Grace Colvin of 411 Elmwood drive to fill it Miss Colvin has taught industrial art in the Marion schools since 1924

As visiting teacher Miss Colvin will give up her industrial art teaching and will devote her time to being guide and counselor to the problem cases on the school absence lists Miss Colvin has carried on this work at the Central Junior and Vernon Heights Junior High schools and has met with a reassuring success Supt C A Hudson said

Not only will her work serve the pupils concerned but it will tend to raise the average daily attendance and bring a corresponding increase in income from the state foundation program which is based on per pupil attendance Figures in the office of the superintendent show that the average daily absence is from 10 to 300 pupils

Stuart Shipman of the North Main street school was given a leave of absence for one year to pursue his studies Miss Mary Conn of the Oakland school and Miss Norma McFeratnar of the Oney avenue school presented resignations

All of the teachers rehired yesterday are subject to assignment by Supt Hudson and filling of vacancies that will be made at the next board meeting June 8

COURT TO RULE ON POWER JOBS

Justice To Give Ruling on $200,000,000 Program Financed by PWA.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 25—Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the District of Columbia supreme court is expected to rule this week on the constitutionality of one of the new deal's most far-reaching activities—a $200,000,000 public power program financed by the public works administration.

He will hear final arguments Tuesday in an injunction suit brought by four utility companies, which ask an order forbidding PWA to finance 10 municipal electric plants in Alabama, Texas, Oklahoma and Iowa.

Newton D. Baker will present a final plea for the power companies Tuesday. Jerome Frank of the administration legal staff will sum up arugments for the government.

Frank has intimated that he hopes to carry this case to the supreme court for a final hearing on PWA power developments. Virtually all the 85 electric projects approved by PWA have been tied up by injunction proceedings.

The utility lawyers have challenged the PWA power program on three major grounds:

1. That the 1935 relief act is unconstitutional.

2. That even if the act is held valid, the power projects do not comply with its terms.

3. That the power companies will be fatally injured by government competition.

Alexander Holtzoff, special assistant to the attorney general, answered the first charge with a detailed defense of the 1935 relief act. He argued that it was not an illegal delegation of power, since the possible uses of relief funds were clearly specified.

John W. Scott, government attorney, submitted a report made by Secretary of Interior Ickes to congress, which, he said, contained a complete program of public works.

Acknowledging that the municipal plants would compete with private firms, Scott contended that all

STREET WORK MOVING AHEAD

Church and Mt. Vernon Avenue Resurfacing To Be Finished Soon.

Work on the widening and resurfacing of East Church street and Mt Vernon avenue has been progressing rapidly and prospects are bright for completion of the project by the last of next month engineers in charge of the job reported today

The project which includes all of Mt Vernon avenue and that section of East Church street between State and Vine streets is part of a WPA program on Ohio highways The job is being carried out by the Upper Sandusky contracting firm of Batdorff & Martin and is under the supervision of state highway department's resident engineer Herbert R. Krebs

The task of pouring the concrete base on the East Church street section was begun last Thursday and will be completed early next week Seven inches of concrete is being poured over the sub-grade and will be topped by a two and one half inch asphaltic surface. The top will be poured when the base has been cured for seven days M I. Johnson, project engineer working under Mr Krebs explained

An eighteen ton finishing machine 20 feet wide the largest ever used in this section is being employed on the newly poured base. The big finishing machine is 20 feet wide Engineer Johnson said. The machine operates on the entire width of the street with its metal wheels fitted to tracks laid along each side. The machine levels the base immediately after the concrete is poured and sets the crown of the street at the correct height.

It is not intended to put a new base on Mt Vernon avenue but a two inch asphalt top will be laid the entire length of the street. The old base is in excellent condition and a new one is not necessary D J Harlow of Fostoria chief inspector for the state highway department said

Inspector Harlow also pointed out that the criticism leveled at the project because of tree removal before the work was started was unwarranted. Only 13 trees were disturbed on both streets he said and on East Church street two trees were moved back and two others were replaced with new trees This was done under the supervision of Hugh Kennedy state landscape engineer who made a special trip here for that purpose

The widening part of the project calls for four feet on the north side of East Church street and two feet on each side of Mt. Vernon avenue Work on the project this week will include removal of pavement on the east end of Mt Vernon avenue and grading work on the avenue

Letters from Our Readers

A REVENUE SUGGESTION

Editor of The Star The time has come to look about for every possible means of solving Marion's critical financial problem. The city cannot go on in its present crippled condition especially when we know that the measures adopted thus far drastic as they are, offer no hope of getting the municipal treasury out of the red" Even with police and fire departments cut in half and other operating costs diminished the city is not assured a balanced budget

Additional revenue offers the only avenue for placing the city's affairs on a sound and substantial basis The bonded debt and fixed charges coming down from numerous preceding administrations cannot be reduced at least for several years and this leaves no possible way to come within the current tax income without doing away with public service which is absolutely essential for community security

How to get more revenue is the all important question at this time In that connection attention might be given to the several hundred thousand dollars of delinquent taxes standing on the county's books It seems that at least a substantial percentage of this delinquency could be collected if officials would center their efforts on the job The major portion of the overdue taxes stands against city property so that payments would immediately provide help where funds are most urgently needed

I do not advocate forced collection against properties of citizens unable to pay because of financial distress but I do believe the tax lists should be thoroughly combed to require payment by those able to pay Certainly in the long list of delinquents on the tax books there are some probably many property owners of that class In such instances the law empowering public officials to enforce tax payments should be applied promptly and effectively

It is my suggestion that the prosecuting attorney county commissioners and county treasurer take this matter in hand immediately and see if the delinquent tax list cannot be made to produce revenue which will help relieve the city of its financial burden This may be the means of not only returning Marion's furloughed police and firemen to their posts but also to clean up some of the operating debt handed down from the previous city administration

I understand it has been done in other counties Why not here?

WILL ROGERS DRIVE ON HERE

Theater Patrons Asked To Aid in Campaign for Memorial Hospital.

Cooperation of Marion residents in the nationwide tribute to Will Rogers this week has been excellent, Marion theater managers reported today

The current week May 22-28 has been set aside by the theatrical profession of the country as a "memorial week" for the late actor on the occasion of the dedication of the Will Rogers Memorial hospital at Saranac Lake N Y All people in and out of the profession have been urged to join with the theaters throughout the country in honoring the memory of Rogers

The Will Rogers Memorial hospital was built at a cost of more than a million dollars and was opened June 28 1930 as the National Vaudeville Artists Sanatorium and Lodge It has been dedicated to the care and treatment of tuberculosis among needy show people Since its opening there have been 231 tubercular patients admitted 177 of whom were discharged These patients have come from every branch of the theatrical profession

This great retreat which has been turned over by the theater profession to the Will Rogers Memorial commission is one of the most complete sanatoriums in the United States Located at Saranac Lake in the foot hills of the Adirondacks the hospital sits in the center of 48 acres of woodland

Fred W Warner, chairman of the Marion County Will Rogers memorial committee today urged residents here to participate in "memorial week." The hospital he said is a fitting and useful tribute to the memory of the late actor "No makeshift home treatment can be substituted for the normal care in the treatment of tuberculosis In the Will Rogers Memorial hospital every actor stage hand electrician manager musician director and press agent will know a haven" Mr Warner said

The week's program here is in charge of George E. Pierce manager of the Palace theater J J Huebner manager of the Ohio theater and Mr Warner Both theaters are showing specially booked feature pictures and a short subject that is a eulogy of Will Rogers by Irvin Cobb Shirley Temple May Robson Lowell Thomas and Bing Crosby The famous last picture of the cowboy philosopher and Wiley Post is included in the film

Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America

..and tobacco to the world

..and now throughout the world smokers are saying

They Satisfy

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before.

Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this . . .

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.

4-H CLUB OFFICIAL IS SPEAKER HERE

mer Meeting Launches Or- anization's Summer Pro- gram in County.

H. W. Hershfield of Columbus, assistant state 4-H club leader, addressed the leaders and advisors of Marion county clubs at a dinner meeting. The meeting launched the 1936 summer program for county 4-H clubs being organized under the direction of S. L. Anderson, county farm agent, and his assistant, R. W. Pifer.

Mr. Hershfield in his address said the club program is accomplishing three things for its members in serving the need for achievement or accomplishment through the completion of educational projects, it is setting up a plan of living by influencing character through the work which is built around daily activities of farm and home projects, and it is developing sound leadership by training the members to cooperate and be good followers as well as leaders, he said. He pointed out that the program gives rural background to future leadership and that it creates new interest in family relationship and serves the need for sympathetic understanding.

Mr. Anderson presided at the informal program and introduced the speaker. A brief talk, outlining the summer activities was given by Mr. Pifer, and group singing led by Mrs. Anderson completed the program. Twenty-eight county 4-H club leaders were present.

BABSON VISIONS WAR BY 1950

Tells College Graduates To Stay in Interior of U. S.; Coast Towns Will Fall.

By The Associated Press

CONWAY, Ark., May 26—Roger W. Babson, envisioning another world war before 1950 which might bring destruction to the great seaboard cities, advised college graduates today to plan their future in interior America.

The Massachusetts economist and statistician said in an address before joint commencement exercises of Hendrix and Arkansas State Teachers colleges "Frankly I believe that you are to see very perilous times."

"There will be no European war this year, or perhaps for several years but only a spiritual awakening can prevent another great world war before 1950, into which the United States will necessarily be drawn," he said. "In this coming world conflict I should not be surprised to see destruction of the great cities on our Atlantic and Pacific seaboards."

Babson spoke on "Lessons I Have Learned from Hard Knocks." His advice to the graduates included

"Remain in the state of Arkansas. Do not go to any seaboard city whether it is located on the Atlantic or Pacific coast. Keep fairly well in the interior of the country.

"Avoid large cities. If a revolution takes place it will not be because capitalists and specialists per se but it will be because the people living in the cities and the people living in the country do not get on together. In such conflict women those living in small cities will have a great advantage. In such a conflict the large cities may not a chance. They could be starved into submission within a week."

Urging the acquisition of a home "with a piece of land sufficient to support yourself and family in an emergency" the earning of a profession or trade emphasis on character and "interest in home church," Babson said

"I wish there was some way my words could be put into permanent form and stored away by you to be taken down about the year 1950. Then you will be wishing that you had taken the advice of this old fogy who is talking to you tonight."

Patent On Door Appliance Asked By Marion Man

Arthur A. Van Atta of 264 Bellefontaine avenue, head of the Van Atta Supply Co., has applied for a patent on a metal door he has designed to fit any of the nine different standard door openings.

Originally developed as an adjustable screen door, Mr. Van Atta has extended the prospective use of his invention to all types of doors.

The proposed doors have a riveted adjustment in length and width making them adaptable to all standard size door openings and making the job of hanging the door a simple one, Mr. Van Atta explained.

The design of the door also will permit a tight fit of a door opening that is slightly wider at one end than the other, he said.

In connection with it he has developed a combination molding and screen wire holder that clamps on the wire and permits changing the screen in the door in a few minutes.

The door, made of metal, would overcome the danger of warping would be more durable than wood and could be marketed at a lower price than most types of wood doors if the cost of fitting them to the opening and hanging them is taken into consideration, Mr. Van Atta said.

In discussing the possible use of his adjustable door principle in solid doors Mr. Van Atta said he has designed the solid door in such a way that it automatically provides its own weatherstripping.

Mr. Van Atta said he has not yet made definite arrangements for commercial development of the invention.

THE Westinghouse UNIT HAS always BEEN Hermetically sealed

● The first Westinghouse Refrigerator ever sold had a Hermetically-sealed Mechanism. Twelve years of research, experiment, and testing went into its development. To these years of pre-testing have been added long years of actual operating proof. In thousands of homes daily experience shows that this forced-draft cooled, Hermetically-sealed, lifetime-oiled mechanism is the key to unusually low-cost, trouble-free refrigeration. That is why owners, by thousands, say "If we were buying a new refrigerator today it would certainly be a Westinghouse." That's why Westinghouse can say, "With every sealed-in mechanism you get five years' protection against service expense at a cost of only $5 — a dollar a year — included in the price." LIE DETECTOR CLEARS SPOUSE

Police Accept Suspect's Story His Wife Shot Herself After Quarrel.

By The Associated Press

[illegible] May 26 — After two hours questioning Oliver Armbruster with a "lie detector," police announced yesterday [illegible] his story his wife shot herself, though convinced [illegible] of the quarrel had [illegible] on.

Armbruster was taken to the prosecutor's office for further questioning, maintaining his last story Sunday shooting was [illegible] the "lie detector" [illegible] Wilma, his wife of two months, repentant after he had found her drinking in a tavern with a strange man, had seized his gun, and shot herself in the head.

Just before she killed herself, Armbruster, a former World war aviator, had fired the gun to show her it was dangerous, he told authorities.

Authorities said they found a note which read:

"Dear Ollie—I am writing just a line to you to let you know I love you and so you won't be blamed for what happens to me. I know I can't make you happy so the quickest way out is the best. Think of me as kindly as you can and please send me home. P. S.—I called Libby and told him to leave Lindell Mae where she is." The note was signed "Love," with no name.

Officials said "Libby" apparently referred to the slain woman's first husband, Harry Libby jr., a federal court reporter.

POPE TELLS WRITERS PRESS RULES WORLD

Labels Papers Transmitters and Registrars of Thought; Shows His Age.

"Jim" Resigns.

Although stoutly maintaining that he was not the source of the leaks which enabled speculators profitably to insure with Lloyds against increased taxes, J. H. Thomas, British secretary of states for the colonies, resigned when touched by the breath of scandal. His Majesty "graciously accepted" the resignation. Thus is ended, practically, the colorful and dramatic political career of a veteran leader who rose from the ranks of labor.

While many will regret the passing of Mr. Thomas from political leadership, they also may be prompted to reflect upon the sensitivity of the British governmental structure and the alacrity with which it can, upon occasions, respond to stimuli. Possessing a majority as effective as that enjoyed by the Democrats in this country, conservatives were obliged to—and perhaps glad to be able to—accept Sir Samuel Hoare's resignation from the cabinet when his Ethiopian peace proposals aroused international indignation.

If he had not shouldered the blame alone, the cabinet would have had to share it and face the likelihood of receiving the one adverse vote in parliament which is all that is necessary to oust it from office. With the "sacrifice" of Sir Samuel, the cabinet scalp was saved. Similarly, "Jim" Thomas' resignation has forestalled the possibility of the whole cabinet's being involved in scandal.

This parliamentary procedure which makes possible—and almost mandatory — the retiring of a single cabinet member in cases of scandal or error, has much to recommend it. Undoubtedly points can be made against it, but there must be times when Americans, for instance, wish that the force of public indignation could expel political leaders from the cabinet and other high posts.

Making a Martyr.

Congressmen are apprehensive about the Townsend plan, not quite so panicky as they were, but still nervous. Those who do not like the OARP scheme would like to get rid of it before the campaign.

It's no secret that the purpose of the investigation of Dr. Townsend's huge mushroom pension idea is to make it wilt. Congressmen know that, and so do the Townsendites.

Naturally, the latter are resentful of what they believe is the vindictiveness of the investigators. They are not willing to be shown there is anything wrong with OARP.

This attitude is important. Under the circumstances, it would be treacherously easy to make a martyr of Dr. Townsend. The situation calls for tact.

There are many persons who would like to have the fallacies and the shady portions of the Townsend movement exposed. Most of them, however, are not interested in anything which smacks of persecution of any individual.

It is just as convincing to them if Dr. Townsend or other witnesses testifying in behalf of OARP do not care to speak freely as it would be if they proved to be obliging. Congressmen should bear in mind that the worst thing they could do at this point in the rise and fall of the Townsend movement would be to make a martyr of its founder.

Ripples.

Despite the spirited campaign of Franklin W. Fort, who battled solely upon the issues of the Hauptmann case, Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey was elected delegate at large to the Republican convention. But instead of garnering the largest vote of the four delegates thus elected, Gov. Hoffman ran fourth.

As head of his party, the governor normally would be chosen chairman of the state's delegate group, but considerable doubt has been expressed as to whether this honor should go to him in view of his poor showing. Whatever the immediate outcome, it seems certain that Gov. Hoffman has lost prestige and it is not improbable his political career has been endangered.

March 1, 1932, the Lindberghs' baby was kidnaped. Later he was found dead. A few weeks ago, after long delay, Bruno Hauptmann was executed for the crime. A short while before the execution, the Lindberghs went abroad to live. Now Gov. Hoffman, apparently, faces a personal crisis.

From that day in 1932, when news of the cruel crime burst upon the world, until today, the ripples of the ensuing events have spread ever wider. A man now may be forced from public life for the part he played in a drama in which he was not one of the original characters. It cannot be known, if Gov. Hoffman fails, whether he is retired because he was seeking to further political ambitions. It can be seen, however, that a chain of events often may be welded together to crimp about unforeseen results.

The American System.

Alfred P. Sloan, who assails the new deal's methods of meeting depression emergencies as a "direct attack on the American system," has used a phrase which is hard to define.

There is an American system for almost everything Americans do. All together, they comprise one vast system. Yet it is obvious that there are wide differences of opinion on what the systems really are.

For instance, among Mr. Sloan's competitors in the automobile industry, there probably is room for disagreement over the American system. Obviously, Mr. Sloan and Mr. Roosevelt, who has ideas of his own about an American system, couldn't get together.

Each might argue that he has the secret of the real system, but in a republic final determination of the point would rest with voters. There is, after all, no infallible way of doing things which always has been, is and always will be the exclusive American way.

On the whole it would be advisable when referring to the American system to explain that there is room for individual differences of opinion. The best system—the American one—should be always the one that works best. That, if we understand what Mr. Sloan means, is the reason he doesn't like the way the new deal has been trying to handle its problems.

Please Remit.

Without the optimism that used to characterize persons sending out bills, Uncle Sam is preparing to dispatch 12 "please remit" notes. When it is reflected that the 12 reminders ask for more than a billion dollars to be paid June 15, it scarcely can be wondered why he is not over hopeful.

Dr. "Shylock's" sending out of these bills hardly would have occasioned any comment if it had not been for a little flurry of conscience that recently struggled for existence in two European countries—struggled and probably died. It happens that the United States has been mailing out similar dunning notices for quite a few years and has become accustomed to getting response only from Finland, one of the smaller debtors.

Doctors, dentists, merchants and all other persons who grant credit and then try to collect, can sympathize with Uncle Sam. He just doesn't have a tinker's chance of collecting. More's the pity. When the day of reckoning comes and he can't pay his own bills, he'll not be able to fall back on the towering relief edifice which so heroically he labored to build.

Drawn to Each Other.

Not many readers noticed the story of the death of Charles Watson Townsend, who played the piano well enough to become a concert performer and who enjoyed food so much he invented pie a la mode.

According to the legend, Townsend upset a waiter half a century ago by asking for a scoop of ice cream on top of a piece of apple pie. The idea grew and a national custom was founded.

If it could be ascertained definitely who were the first men to put gravy on mashed potatoes, fluid chocolate on top of ice cream, cream in coffee, paprika on cottage cheese, ketchup on baked beans and ham on rye, it would be a distinct service to compile a national encyclopedia of inventors of successful combinations.

However, it might be discovered somewhere along the line that such things go together so naturally that probably no one man really deserves credit, with all respect to the late Mr. Townsend.

Talk of Coalition At Cleveland Grows

Union of Republican and Anti-New Deal Forces Proposed for G. O. P. Convention Next Month.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 26—As the time for the conventions approaches, more and more talk is being heard about making the Cleveland gathering a truly Republican-Democratic coalition.

To do it, three steps are being suggested.

First, the adoption of a resolution pledging the candidate to carry out those planks of the Democratic platform of 1932 which have been repudiated by the new deal party. Such a resolution would be apart from the adoption of a new platform of affirmative pledges with respect to problems that have arisen since 1932.

Second, the selection of a Democrat for the vice presidency.

Third, a resolution pledging the parties' candidate for the presidency to appoint a coalition cabinet consisting of Democrats as well as Republicans.

If the Republican leaders are truly interested in gathering into their camp the large number of anti-new deal Democrats, so many of whom dislike to vote the Republican ticket as such, then a program for coalition would seem likely to be considered. If the Republicans command, on the other hand, thinks the party can win without the Democrats, the convention will probably repeat the empty gesture made by the Republican committee last winter about inviting Democrats to vote the ticket and let it go at that.

But there are many Republicans who think a crisis faces the party, in fact that it is on trial and that a severe defeat in the forthcoming election may mean the fate of the old Whig party which died in 1860.

As a matter of fact, there is a curious historic parallel in the mention of the Civil war situation, and oddly enough it concerns Henry Breckinridge, who recently made a gallant fight in the primaries of four states and who now is being mentioned as a possibility for the vice presidential nomination at the Cleveland convention.

Henry Breckinridge's grandfather, Robert J. Breckinridge, was the leader of the Union cause in Kentucky. Though a Democrat, he was chosen chairman of the convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln in 1864. He was insistent that the convention not be called a Republican convention because it might not attract Democrats and Whigs, and the records will show that Abraham Lincoln was nominated by what was called the Union or National Union convention. Also, on demand of Robert Breckinridge and border state Whigs and Democrats, Andrew Johnson, a Tennessee Democrat, was nominated for the vice presidency as the running mate of Abraham Lincoln.

It would be a curious turn of history if the same thing happened this year with respect to the grandson of Robert Breckinridge, namely if the Cleveland convention styled itself a coalition convention and named a Democrat for the vice presidency.

If Gov. Landon is the nominee and makes only a front porch campaign, it may be even more important from his standpoint to have a man of the Breckinridge type for his running mate. Breckinridge is a splendid campaigner and remarkable orator. He inherits the fighting qualities of his ancestors, one of whom—his great-grandfather—was attorney general in the cabinet of Thomas Jefferson and another of whom was vice president of the United States under President Buchanan in 1860 and later joined the confederacy.

Colonel Breckinridge is a graduate of the class of 1907 of Princeton university and while there attracted the attention of Woodrow Wilson who later made him assistant secretary of war. In 1918, Colonel Breckinridge was at the western front with the infantry and on his return practiced law. He has been interested also in the aviation business and has been the personal attorney for Colonel Lindbergh, who doubtless would not hesitate to campaign for Breckinridge if the latter were nominated for the vice presidency on a coalition ticket. Lindbergh's support undoubtedly would be pointed because he made the first protest against that sudden cancellation of the airmail contracts which resulted in the death of several army pilots in an abortive attempt to substitute an untrained personnel for airmail men in the middle of winter—a blunder that has not been forgotten and will be recalled in the campaign this year, especially since it looks as if Postmaster General Farley is going to be an object of some controversy, politically speaking.

There is also some talk of nominating Lewis Douglas for the vice presidency. He too is a Democrat who has repudiated the new deal. Mr. Douglas was a member of congress from Arizona before he became director of the budget. The friends of Breckinridge are pointing out that he has tested fire in the primaries in four states and that his vigor as a campaigner ought to make him first choice on that account.

But matters such as these are decided by a group of Republican chieftains who have their own ideas about the vice presidency, and there are, of course, many Republicans with eyes on the place. It could happen that a Democrat would be selected for the vice presidential nomination, but the chances are very much against it because the Cleveland convention is composed of regular Republicans who care more about party habits than they do about extraordinary situations. But if they really need a precedent, they will find that Lincoln did it in 1864 in the very first years of the Republican party's long period of national supremacy.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The suggestion will be scoffed officially, but the United States now has the nearest thing to an international alliance since 1776.

Nothing has been put on paper, but that means little. Signed agreements do not amount to much in these days of international lawlessness. An exchange of military confidences and a similarity of interests and purposes are far more trustworthy. With such things are the current inside naval relations between the United States and Britain seemingly sealed.

Bonds

It started back a few years ago when a necessity developed for naval cooperation in the Far East. At that time, an entirely unofficial understanding was reached to prevent the American and British fleets from running into each other in the dark on the Pacific.

The unbinding relationship grew at the London naval conference and has been further expanded by developments in Europe during the last few weeks.

The men behind the mast here generally know more now than they ever did about British naval plans and purposes and vice versa.

Arrangements

It has never been officially disclosed, but the recent British demand for 25 new destroyers was no surprise here. The British told our delegates at the London naval conferences they were going to need more destroyers (and more cruisers) to meet the Italian naval threat in submarines and fast cruisers. United States Ambassador-at-Large Norman Davis and Admiral Stanley told them privately and informally it was all right with us.

We had our reasons. Our destroyer tonnage is now 80,000 in excess of the old expiring treaty limit. Britain's is 40,000 over. Now, either of us could get around the already obsolete treaty by invoking the escalator clause of the new London agreement. Or we could both scrap our excess tonnage one minute before midnight Dec. 31, and reinstate it one minute later (the old treaty merely promised reduction of destroyer tonnage to 150,000 any time before the treaty expires this year, and nobody has reduced yet.)

But use of either of those devices. Individually, by any one nation would entail serious responsibilities. Japan scrapped the old treaty and resisted the new, but she would not overlook any such opportunity to howl. The two major nations, working together, can accomplish a mutually desirable and practical purpose, and not care who howls.

And this is not the only important naval matter upon which Britain and the United States have worked together lately.

Do not overlook the fact that the new naval bill, now clearing congress, carried funds for 12 new destroyers and six submarines, as well as money for continuing construction of twenty destroyers and four submarines now building.

Herrings

Frequent secret calls which the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, has been paying to the state department are not supposed to mean anything.

The explanation privately offered by both American and British sources is that he has merely been trying to save a British subject from the hangman's rope. The doomed man, who has thus caused Sir Ronald more anxiety than he ordinarily devotes to an important diplomatic matter, was Alexander Mackay, convicted of kidnaping a sheriff in a celebrated California jail break. Sir Ronald wanted to get him a new trial, but failed.

Frequently, callers at the White House drop a small red herring in the form of a truthful announcement concerning a minor matter they have discussed with the President, in order to conceal a far more important matter which was discussed. It happens less frequently at the state department, but it happens.

The British are having a hard time making up their minds what to do about Mussolini. They are more fearful of him than of any of the other autocratic regimes in Europe. They believe one should be smashed to curb the rest and their choice is Mussolini rather than Hitler. The only thing they are not sure about is how to do it.

Debts

One thing Britain and the United States have not worked out together, however, is war debts. You may have noticed that the recent Franco-British overtures slipped out of the headlines fast.

The reason is every one here knows these grand proposed offers will probably amount to about a dime on the dollar or less. Our diplomats also have reason to suspect that the offer is bait for American entry into a redecorated League of Nations.

Rumors persist that Alexander Woollcott is to quit the hurly-burly of New York for a cloistered life near the murmuring trees of the campus of his beloved Hamilton college from which he was graduated and of which he is now a trustee. For years he has been a symbol of dancing in Times Square and celebrated as the sage of "Wit's End," his four-room apartment at the foot of East 52d street. His balconied windows, on which he gave his famous Sunday morning breakfasts, are almost lapped by the river. His English living room is paneled in pine and his bed is a windowed alcove niched among his books and overlooking the stream.

But now his apartment is being readied for sale and Woollcott wants to get away from it all. Back to the scenes of his collegiate days to write when he pleases, read the books he has neglected and to travel at intervals to far-away places. He wants to realize the unrealized dream of almost every "ink stained wretch" and go down the other side of the hill with the leisure to pick daisies, loll under great oaks and things.

Woollcott has flourished financially the last few years through radio and enormous book royalties. The gossip goes he is paying for the college education of a number of poor boys anonymously. His besetting worry is avoirdupois. He was a moderately thin fellow until rather late in life he had the mumps. Then he began to balloon, and believes the cause is glandular. He has been the subject of much medical experimentation with this theory as a basis. Partly successful but not as much as he desired. His removal from the New York scene will uproot one of the most vital figures of the era—and like most vital figures one with staunch friendships and of course the inevitable sneerers.

One Point Still Undecided

Democrats Uncertain About Court Platform Plank.

BY BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Most of its proceedings already have been prearranged, but the Democratic national convention may find one question still wide open: How far should the party platform go in criticism of the courts, and in asking for a new judicial deal?

Under the surface discussion of that subject has developed a wide range of opinion without pointing the way to a solution. It seems certain that many conflicting viewpoints will be presented to the platform-builders.

No one professes to know just what course will be favored by Mr. Roosevelt, in whose hands control of the convention is expected to rest.

In one respect, at least, the supreme court's invalidation of the Guffey coal control act strikes deeper into new deal philosophy than did the NRA decision.

The court now has held that neither the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution nor the taxing power may be used to do what the administration wants to do about wages and hours.

May Reach Convention

What is left? Is it possible to find some other means which the courts will accept? Some administration attorneys think so, but no one has suggested exactly what it is.

A year has elapsed since the President suggested that the NRA decision, in all of its implications meant a turning back to the "horse and buggy days."

Several months have passed since Secretary Wallace referred to one feature of the AAA decision as constituting a "legalized steal."

During the interim most administration leaders have been saying little but thinking much. Only sporadic public criticisms of the courts have disclosed how deep was the feeling of disappointment among those who embrace the political philosophy of the new deal.

Some Roosevelt men would like to see the party propose directly a constitutional amendment broadening the powers of the federal government over such matters as wages, hours of labor, prices and agricultural production.

Others suggest that unanimous action should be required to invalidate a law by a supreme court decision. Some would be content if the party merely reaffirmed its faith in the validity of the measures which the highest court has overthrown, and then threw in a few pungent references to current judicial practices and tendencies.

Lends Dramatic Value

Of course it still is possible that these divergent views may be compromised in private, and never heard of them on the floor of the convention.

Few politicians believe a constitutional amendment will be embodied in the platform, but few are able to see how the convention can remain entirely silent on the subject.

NRA, AAA and the other enactments rejected by the court have been very prominent parts of the administration program. It would be contrary to all precedent to ignore them in the platform; and if they are mentioned at all, it would be the natural thing to say something in defense of them. That would recall at once what the supreme court said in condemnation of them.

The whole question is wrapped in complications. Its decision may involve the one major element of suspense in a convention whose nominees and most of whose platform seem well determined beforehand.

Previews

Two advance samples of what may go into the major party keynote addresses emphasize anew the broad front of the attack and defense of the Roosevelt administration.

Former President Hoover, in his Philadelphia speech, called the roll of new deal developments to which he is antagonistic. It is a long one.

Inadvertently he left a clue to the time he had spent framing his speech. He mentioned that two weeks remained before the date of the Democratic convention. Yet the text he said "in another 50 days the new deal party will convene in this (Philadelphia) city." A slip, no doubt, but perhaps an indication he had been polishing off his phrases since April 23.

Cummings Calls the Roll

Similarly calling the roll of new deal acts was Attorney General Homer Cummings in the keynote address before the Connecticut state convention. Down the line he went, beginning with the banking crisis encountered by President Roosevelt within 24 hours after he took office. He defended and applauded monetary revision, the CCC, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, deposit insurance, TVA and reciprocal trade.

There were indications it was not merely a state convention keynote, for on the advance drafts handed out in Washington it was stated that the speech was to be broadcast over a radio network. It was not take much of a network to go beyond the confines of compact Connecticut.

MINOR OHIO SPRINGS

Few other of the plain states have so many springs of beneficial mineral content as Ohio. At Knisely Springs in Crawford county, there are no fewer than 11 different springs within an area not exceeding four square rods.

The owner claims that each spring shows by chemical analysis it contains different elements or salts. This seems remarkable since all 11 springs are located in a small basin on a rill that flows into the Sandusky river not far away.

SOCIALISTS OUTLINE PARTY PLATFORM

which the delegates in public hall ball room accepted Thomas as their standard bearer was followed by a few scattered "Nays" that echoed the bitter left wing-right wing fight that opened the convention and resulted in a party bolt by the defeated right wing elements, which yesterday formed the Social Democratic federation in a rump session in Hotel Hollenden.

A 15-minute ovation and parade of red flags and state banners greeted Thomas' arrival from the hotel room where he awaited the nomination which he said was "not entirely a surprise."

Right wing delegates who did not stand when the demonstration began were forced to their feet when the convention sang "The Internationale." The Connecticut standard remained in place during the parade, and the Massachusetts standard paraded only after argument among that state's delegates.

Nelson was nominated for vice president by Andrew J. Biemiller of Wisconsin as a Socialist who had been successful in organizing farmers of the middle west and in protecting farmers of Wisconsin from foreclosure actions.

Complimentary nominations were tendered Roy Burt of Chicago and Mary Donovan Hapgood (Mrs. Powers Hapgood) of Indianapolis, both of whom immediately withdrew in favor of Nelson.

The day's session closed with adoption of the report of the organization and campaign committee, which called for a campaign fund of $100,000 and added permanent committees on labor and Socialist defense and on cooperatives to the party organization. The report also called for more concentrated organization efforts in the south and west.

25 WARRANTS FACE BLACK LEGION MEN

questioning at the prosecutor's office yesterday.

The investigation led to other cities, and to other states, as did the tentacles of robed and hooded order for which one spokesman claimed 6,000,000 members. That estimate came from V. F. Effinger of Lima, O., whose name was found in Black legion correspondence at Jackson, Mich.

At Lansing, Mich., Attorney General David H. Crowley planned to confer with State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander, on the advisability of a state-wide grand jury investigation of reports that the Black legion resorted to threats, floggings and even "executions" to intimidate recalcitrant members, terrify radicals, obtain political preferment and to punish wayward husbands.

G-Men Stay Out

Reports that the federal government might enter the investigation were denied at Washington by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation. He said no "federal angle" had been brought to the bureau's attention.

Among the membership requirements contained in Black legion literature seized in Jackson were possession of a pistol, and willingness to use it on orders from superior officers.

In Flint, Mich., Prosecutor Andrew J. Tansue said the Black legion was strongly entrenched in Genesee county with 2,000 members, and declared he had information that it was "organized for murder and intimidation." He said a grand jury investigation was under consideration.

An attempted slaying at Lansing, Mich., on May 10, was under investigation by state police.

Denunciation of the Black legion, whose literature described it as an organization for the defense of Protestantism, came from the Detroit Methodist Preachers association. A resolution adopted yesterday referred to the members as "hooded gangsters," and called upon authorities to "use legal means to suppress and extirpate this monstrous perfidity."

6,000,000 Members, Says Lima Man

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., May 26 — V. F. Effinger, former electrical contractor and twice a candidate for sheriff here, placed today the membership of the Black legion, now under investigation in Michigan, at more than 6,000,000.

Effinger, whom Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea of Wayne county (Detroit) has sought for questioning, said in a formal statement that the Black legion is "a secret society dedicated to the most lofty principles and stands for the highest form of American progress."

Before issuing the statement, when asked if he held membership in the legion, Effinger said, "None of your business. What if I am the leader? We do not countenance murders."

Effinger was a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Allen county in 1932 and 1934, losing both times.

"I know nothing about the killing of anybody in Detroit or elsewhere, by the Black legion," Effinger said in his statement. "The organization deplores anything of this nature. It stands wholly for law and order based on justice.

"An unlawful act that might be committed by one or more irresponsible persons claiming membership in any given organization certainly should not be construed as a reflection of the legitimate aims and purposes of such organization.

"The Black legion has more than 6,000,000 members. It will go right ahead promoting the best interests of America and American citizens, despite the unfortunate affair in Detroit. When a few men let booze get the best of them and then kill a man, it is absurd to attempt to link such an act with an organization that has nothing whatever to do with mad acts of this nature."

Effinger said that a number of years ago he headed the Ku Klux Klan in Lima, where he has lived for more than 20 years.

Mayor J. H. Beitz of McGuffey, near Kenton, O., said last night that the Black legion attempted to intervene in a strike of onion field workers there in June, 1934.

DELAWARE AVE. GAS STATION AGAIN DENIED

Council Rejects Mrs. Gompf Application by Narrow Vote Margin.

FOURTH EFFORT LOSES

Sought To Have Property Transferred to City Commercial Zone.

For the second time in less than a year city council last night refused by a margin of one vote, to change the property of Mrs. Hattie B. Gompf of 486 Delaware avenue from the residential to the commercial zone in order that a filling station might be erected on the site by the Pure Oil Co. The property is situated in the block where Delaware avenue and Bute street intersect.

With one member of council absent, the vote in favor of a proposal to amend the city zoning ordinance to permit the transfer was six to two, one short of the two-thirds necessary for the amendment to carry. A favorable vote by Councilman Welcome P. Cass Jr. who was absent, would have resulted in passage of the legislation.

Councilmen who voted for the amendment that would have authorized the transfer of the property to the commercial zone were W. M. Fabian, Basil Williams, D. E. Siggert, Clarence Hart, William A. Schuster and Hayse Rogers. The two votes of Robert H. Stief and Harry D. Cahill defeated the proposal.

Council last night also discussed hiring a mechanic for the city fire department, referred to the ordinance and franchise committee a proposal to regulate opening and closing hours for barber shops, sold municipal court bonds to the National City Bank & Trust Co., and authorized repairs at the Marion airport.

Lively Debate

The vote on the legislation to amend the zoning ordinance came after a lively debate between attorneys, South End neighborhood residents, councilmen and Mayor C. E. Smith.

Lined up in favor of the amendatory legislation were Alfred Donithen, Mrs. Gompf's attorney; Mrs. Gompf and Councilman D. R. Elgin. On the opposing side were Edward C. Maloney, attorney for property owners in the Gompf neighborhood; Howard F. Guthery, C. D. Gregg, Mayor F. C. Smith, George Alber and W. C. Beatty.

Attorney Donithen was the first to address council. He presented documents to show that erection of a filling station on the Gompf property would not adversely affect the public health, morals and safety, the only three things, he said, that council should consider in approving or rejecting the amendment.

Mr. Donithen pointed to other business places in the neighborhood of the Gompf property, asserting that the section has lost its residential character and assumed a commercial aspect. He pointed to several filling stations on South Main street, a printing and advertising firm, a young men's social club, a grocery, an ice distributing

Kidnaping and Assault Cited in 25 Warrants Accusing Black Legion

IN FLOGGING PROBE

As Michigan authorities pushed their investigation of activities of the Black Legion in Detroit and in Ohio, police of Jackson, Mich., questioned Ray Ernest, (above) state prison guard, in connection with the death of Paul Every, who died last April, ostensibly of heart failure and diabetes, after having been taken from his home and flogged a month before. New disclosures indicated the Black Legion had 135,000 members in Michigan alone. (International News Photo)

Jackson Authorities Act Against Three Guards at State Prison.

21 JOHN DOES LISTED

Linked to Death of Penitentiary Officer Some Time Ago.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 26 — The "war of extermination" on the Black legion brought 25 warrants charging kidnaping and felonious assault in Jackson today against members of the secret hooded order accused of stripping and flogging a relief worker who refused to join.

Acting with speed that matched that of authorities of Detroit in charging 13 members with the slaying of Charles A. Poole, Prosecutor Owen Dudley of Jackson, swore out warrants today against three guards at the southern Michigan prison, a resident of Norvelle, and 21 "John Does" accused of participation in the beating last Nov. 5 of Harley Smith, father of five children.

The men accused are Ray Ernest, said by Dudley to be a "brigadier general" in the terrorists' band, his brothers Glenn and Clarence, and Allen Bascom. The Ernest brothers are guards at the prison.

The men, held at the state police post in Jackson for investigation in the death of Paul Every, another prison guard, will be arraigned today, Dudley said.

Acting on suspicion that fire which destroyed a barn and outbuildings on the estate of George Noon near Jackson might have been the result of Black legion arson, state police sped to the scene a short time after they had disrupted an attempt by six carloads of vigilantes to conduct a meeting in the woods near there.

In Oakland county, (Pontiac), officers reopened the unsolved slaying of Howard Curtis, whose body was found near Milford late in 1934.

Head Cut From Body

The body, a bullet wound in the back of the head, which had been severed from the body, was found in a clump of bushes by a hunter. The clothing had been set afire.

A resident of the neighborhood said she had heard screams from the direction of the field several days earlier, and had seen three men in a touring car drive away.

Wayne county authorities today raided five homes in the down river district here and found what they claimed was evidence that two recent bombings in Ecorse were inspired by the black robed band.

In the homes, which included those of two former Ecorse councilmen, the raiders seized fire arms and literature of the organization.

Harry Colburn, chief investigator for Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, claimed "positive information" about dictatorship aspirations of Black legion leaders, and said important revelations might be made today.

Colburn also disclosed that seven deaths in the Detroit area in recent years, one of a radical, were being scrutinized for possible connection with alleged terrorist activities of the night-riding order.

Arthur F. Lupp, described by his attorney as "chief recruiting officer" for the Black legion, denied, however, that the society believed in taking the law into its own hands. Lupp submitted to

SIX MEN KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Officials Probe Accident in Northern Quebec, Cause of Which Is Unknown.

PILOT FINDS WRECKAGE

Group Returning from Mine Inspection Tour in Dominion's Gold Fields.

By The Associated Press

AMOS, Quebec, May 26—A Canadian passenger plane crash in which six men died drew official investigators today to the fastnesses of northern Quebec which kept the disaster a secret for two days.

The circumstances of the crash which became known only late last night after the plane plunged to earth last Sunday, were still enveloped in mystery.

A General Airways pilot, Gath Edwards, searching for the missing ship, found the over-turned wreckage about half a mile from Chibougamau lake, about 100 miles northeast of this mining town, and 250 miles northwest of Quebec.

On Way to Rouyn

The passengers were understood to have been returning to Rouyn, Quebec, a mining center 50 miles from here, after an inspection tour of northern mining properties. All occupants of the plane were killed. The dead:

W. H. Clarke, General Airways pilot, veteran flier and aviation pioneer in the northern mining country of Quebec province; George Millhan, mechanic; four passengers, three of them unidentified and the fourth reported from Rouyn to be Leo Springer, prominent mining man and head of Ceres Explorations, Ltd.

Others Prospectors

The other three passengers were understood to be prospectors taken aboard the plane at Father lake and Presqu'Ile to join Springer's inspection party.

Aviators were inclined to attribute the crash to Sunday's adverse flying conditions.

The pilot who located the wreckage brought back the first definite word of the disaster last night. He said the broken plane was lying on its back, but declined to give further information until the airways officials arrived.

The deaths in the disaster were the first in the years of flying to and from the gold mining country.

BULKLEY LOSES OUT IN CLEVELAND FIGHT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 26 — Cuyahoga county Democrats dropped Sen. Robert J. Bulkley and W. H. Annat, one of his followers, from the Democratic county executive committee last night. Bulkley led a fight to elect his own slate of committeemen over those of W. B. Gongwer at the May 12 primary.

Gongwer retained control and last night was elected chairman of the county central committee. Rep. Martin L. Sweeney, who also has been at odds with Gongwer, was retained as a member of the executive committee.

Leader Says Union Will "Not Yield an Inch" in Demand for Bargaining Rights.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 26—Possibility of national guard intervention hung over Portsmouth today as the Wheeling Steel Corp. paid off employes at its downtown offices and federal authorities admitted mediation in the four-day-old strike affecting 5,500 workers appeared remote.

Two national guard officers were sent here by Gov. Martin L. Davey and Adj. General Emil Marx to determine if the strikers' request for protection by troops should be heeded.

Sporadic fights, with more than a score of men treated for minor injuries, marked the walkout.

Faced With Deadlock

"The situation is at a deadlock," declared R. M. Pilkington, federal conciliator sent here by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. He reported after separate meetings with strike leaders and company officials that it probably would be "several days" before tension had eased sufficiently to attempt to get the factions together.

Richard Evans, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, which struck on the contention that its bargaining rights under the national labor relations act were not respected, declared the union "would not yield an inch."

C. C. Caudill, general manager of the Wheeling plant here, reiterated that the company would sign no contract with the union.

Pay Off Downtown

Caudill said heavy picket lines about the plant necessitated the company meeting its semi-monthly payroll at the downtown offices. Almost all the 5,500 workers involved had pay coming for work prior to Friday night, when the strike took effect.

Evans said the pickets were not even permitting mail trucks to enter the plant because of the belief they were taking food in to the nearly 200 office workers and other employes who had remained inside to complete necessary tasks.

All Crew Members Accounted for After Checking of Jersey Forest Fire.

CALLED WORST IN HISTORY

Flames Battled on Wide Front for 48 Hours by 750 Firefighters.

By The Associated Press

NEW GRETNA, N. J., May 26—A south Jersey forest fire, in which five men lost their lives, was brought under control today after more than 750 men fought it on a wide front for 48 hours.

As the fire was brought under control a final check of the crews showed that all were accounted for. At one time a number of CCC workers had been reported missing but they were found on the fire lines.

Only one danger spot remained near Manahawkin and men were rushed there by truck to meet the threat. The state forest fighting service called the fire "the worst in its history," and estimated it had ravaged 15,000 acres. The dead:

John T. LaSalle, 20, of New Brunswick; Edward F. Sullivan, 20, of New Brunswick; Stanley Carr, 22, of Waretown; Kingsley White, 38, of Whitesville; Ira Morey, of West Creek.

Two fire wardens, Benjamin Broome and Henry Updyke, both of New Gretna, reported missing, were found unhurt as searching parties began a hunt through the still-smouldering woodlands for possible further victims.

Earlier today the firefighters thought they had won their battle when they made a last stand in front of Tuckerton, 16 miles from where the fire started, and saved the town. Fire apparatus came from as far as Atlantic City, 26 miles distant.

Before that the fire had eaten away on three fronts and all but one had been believed definitely under control. That one, moving southward toward New Gretna, was the one which turned on Tuckerton.

The fire swept through a triangular area of more than 80 square miles of scrub pines.

Eight men were taken to hospitals, where their condition was described as "fair."

More than 50 youths from five CCC camps and at least 250 volunteer firemen from a dozen departments joined the regular forest wardens in the fight.

NEW TRIAL ASKED BY FRANK BROTHERS

Former Marion Man Files Motion Following Conviction in Columbus.

Frank L. Brothers, former Marion man, today asked a new trial in common pleas court at Columbus on a charge of embezzling $13,000 from the state conservation division while he was its chief accountant, The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Columbus.

Brothers was convicted last week and is free on bond pending outcome of his efforts to get a new trial.

His attorneys contended in the motion that the trial judge erred in submitting to the jury two possible verdicts of guilty instead of one for conviction and one for acquittal. The motion also held that the verdict resulted from "passion and prejudice."

TWO TOWNSEND LEADERS ALSO REFUSE TO TESTIFY

Chicagoan and New York Minister Ignore Call To Appear Before House Investigators.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Dr. F. E. Townsend's defiant attitude toward a house investigating committee was emulated today by two of his old age pension leaders who failed to appear when they were called for questioning.

Chairman Bell, Democrat of Missouri, called for John Kiefer of Chicago, and Rev. Clinton Wunder of New York, when he opened today's hearing. Neither answered.

Bell noted for the record that both were under subpoena to appear today before the committee. The chairman then told newsmen a closed session of the committee this morning failed to change the situation in regard to action against Dr. Townsend for his walkout last Thursday and refusal to testify further.

In a surprise move, Bell then called Rep. McGroarty, Democrat of California, one-time leader of the house Townsend bloc.

Questioning of McGroarty developed that he introduced bills embodying the principles of the Townsend plan for a transaction tax to raise funds for a $200 monthly pension to the aged.

Since Dr. Townsend walked out on the committee last Thursday afternoon with a flat refusal to testify further and an announcement he would not return unless under arrest, the committee has been considering citing him for contempt.

The possibility of still further delay was indicated with the committee still at odds over whether Dr. Townsend should be tried before the bar of the house or the whole matter turned over to a federal court.

Socialists Draft Platform After Naming Thomas

Nominee Tells Delegates Party Fights Both Republicans and Democrats.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 26—Delegates to the Socialist national convention, weary from three days of heated debate and intra-party controversy, assembled today to adopt the party's 1936 platform—admonished by Norman Thomas, its presidential nominee for the third successive time "to win men and women to a new hope and a new way of life." Thomas is a former Marion man.

In his formal speech of acceptance following his nomination yesterday Thomas assailed the Roosevelt administration as having failed and predicted the Republican party would have "nothing positive to offer."

Fight Both Parties

"It is a great thing we dare to do," Thomas told the convention banquet last night. "We oppose the massed resources of Republican captains of industry, the political power and the public purse in possession of the Democrats, facing them with the might of a great faith, of a logical analysis of the diseases of our time and a sure philosophy for building the cooperative commonwealth in which is our hope."

Claiming "the new deal has not worked," Thomas said "there is not a single economist or social analyst of repute who dares to affirm that there are now in operation political and economic forces to make new war unlikely or the danger of fresh economic catastrophe remote."

"The Republicans," he continued, "will curse Roosevelt and the new deal with all the stupidity of French Bourbons who by some concessions might have prolonged their ignoble dynasty before the fall of the bastile. But they will have nothing positive to offer. They cannot agree on anything."

Nelson for Running Mate

George A. Nelson, a "dirt farmer" of Milltown, Wis., who was nominated for vice president, telegraphed the banquet a message of acceptance. At the convention it was explained that Nelson is "not possessed of too much earthly wealth and is a farmer who farms."

Nelson indorsed the action of the convention in declining a united front with the Communist party and said he would conduct an active campaign.

Work on the platform was interrupted by previous arrangements for a national broadcast of the nomination of candidates for president and vice president.

Thomas, 1928 and 1932 presidential candidate, was nominated by Dr. Harry W. Laidler, chairman of the New York State Socialist party, as a "gallant and courageous fighter against capitalism and social injustice and America's foremost apostle of international Socialism."

Seconding speeches include those of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee and John Taylor, a member of the Toledo board of education. No other nominee was offered.

The mighty chorus of "yes" with

Long-Smoldering Opposition to Jewish Influx in Holy Land Flares Into Fight.

FIGHT TWO ENGAGEMENTS

Disperse Mob in One Clash but Retreat in Other as Foes Move on Two Fronts.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, May 26 — The long-smoldering Holy Land Arab anti-Jewish disorders developed today into open, armed conflict between Arabs and British soldiers and police.

British forces, campaigning to restore order after 40 days of violence in which at least 80 persons have been killed, fought two engagements, dispersing a mob of 200 Arabs in one clash but withdrawing before an Arab advance in the other.

The British high commissioner for Palestine, Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, in an address at the Levant fair, warned terrorists: "No strike, no violence can deter the government from fulfilling its obligations under the League of Nations mandate."

Believed Temporary

The high commissioner expressed belief the Arab general strike and demonstrations against Jewish immigrations to the Holy Land were only temporary.

The conflict appeared to be spreading up and down the land Jesus of Nazareth once trod, however, as fresh reports of disorders came to the British administration.

Police were forced to retire from their positions at the foot of Mount Tabor, east of Nazareth, when their ammunition ran out early today after a long gun-battle.

EXTEND LIMITATION LAW

Committee Leader Labels Changes More Psychological Than Real in Effect.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26 — As Democratic members arranged to consult with President Roosevelt tonight on the tax bill, the senate finance committee today agreed definitely to tighten up provisions of existing law for penalty taxes on corporations "improperly accumulating surpluses."

The committee decided that every corporation which retains more than $15,000 of its income or more than 40 per cent of its income, which ever is greater, shall be required to file a statement with its tax return setting forth the reason for accumulating the funds.

To Extend Limitations Statute

It agreed, too, to extend from three to four years the statute of limitations applicable to collection of high taxes on corporations which build up surpluses improperly for purposes of allowing stockholders to avoid surtaxes in the upper income brackets.

Acting Chairman King, Democrat of Utah, said the changes were "more psychology than realism" and that their effect would be to make large corporations a "little more careful in withholding" and to induce them to make bigger distributions of their earnings.

Earlier, the White House had announced that Democratic committeemen would confer with the President on the request of Chairman Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, who absented himself from the committee session today because of illness.

Final approval of the tax bill was regarded as certain to be held over at least until tomorrow.

Can't Reach Accord

The finance committee has been unable so far to reach an agreement on the revenue bill, although it has departed far from Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions for a new corporate tax system based on undistributed profits.

Both the revenue measure passed by the house and the plan so far molded by the finance group fall short of the President's request for $620,000,000 of permanent and $517,000,000 of temporary revenue.

Just before the White House conference was summoned, a finance subcommittee agreed unanimously to recommend against including a proposed tax of one-half cent a pound on sugar in the new tax bill.

Many Factors Involved

Subcommittee members said too many complicating factors were involved to permit carrying the excise levy in the revenue bill, even though it would raise around $68,000,000 and lift the total estimated yield of the measure to about the $620,000,000 of permanent funds requested by President Roosevelt.

Rep. Cummings, Democrat of Colorado, testified such a levy would place a $15,840,000 burden on farmers.

He urged that no action be taken on the sugar tax unless it were attached to a new bill to re-establish the sugar quota system.

Clarence J. Borg, representing the farmers' and manufacturers' Beet Sugar association, with members in Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Indiana, also protested against "singling out sugar."

COUNCIL AGAIN DENIES GAS STATION PETITION

Points to Other Changes

Mr. Donithen declared that since the zoning ordinance was adopted in 1925 it has been amended 26 times to permit moving of properties into the commercial zone. This, he asserted, tends to show a more liberal attitude towards changes in the zoning ordinance and indicates a healthy growth of the city. Mr. Donithen said that council, in considering the amendment, should give thought only to whether the filling station would be detrimental to the public health, safety and morals. "It certainly will not affect the community in any of those phases," he said. He pointed out that a check of traffic through the city a year ago showed that 14,007 vehicles pass the Gompf property daily between 10:30 p. m. and 6 a. m. each week. This is roughly 2,000 cars a night, he said, and it can be seen that the neighborhood already is commercial in character from a standpoint of heavy through traffic.

Attorney Moloney took the floor next to refute Mr. Donithen's assertion that the Gompf neighborhood has taken on a commercial character. He referred to several of the business places pointed out by Mr. Donithen and said most of them did not have a commercial appearance. Calling the section an exclusive residential neighborhood Mr. Moloney presented a list of residents and cited their almost unanimous protest against erection of the filling station. He declared the transfering of properties into the commercial zone must be stopped some time and asserted that Mrs. Gompf's neighbors would suffer a greater financial loss if the station were erected than she would if the proposal were rejected. He declared the zoning ordinance is designed to protect the value of property in the entire city. Mr. Moloney said the majority of the residents in the neighborhood own their own properties. He said the filling station would be detrimental to the public health in that gasoline fumes would permeate the neighborhood, and that it would be detrimental to the public safety because automobiles would be running in and out of the station.

Provides for Growth

Howard F. Guthery said he was speaking for his father, F. E. Guthery, and other residents of the Gompf neighborhood. He declared the section is one of the few in the city that has retained its residential character in the last few years and referred to the beauty of the neighborhood. His father, he said, built his home there 38 years ago and many other residences were erected at about the same time.

The zoning ordinance, Mr. Guthery asserted, should provide a gradual controlled growth of the city and that if the Gompf property is transferred to the commercial zone authorities might as well make the whole neighborhood and entire city commercial in character. "If we're going to have a zoning ordinance let's have it and if we're not going to observe it let's throw it out entirely and quit this monkey business."

P. D. Gregg, who lives at 586 Delaware avenue, spoke briefly, pointing out that the noise around a filling station disturbs residents and causes them to lose sleep.

Mrs. Gompf was given the floor and pointed to a number of properties in the neighborhood that are rented by the owners. She refuted the contention of Mr. Moloney and Mr. Guthery that most of the residents own their own property.

George Alber, another resident of the section, read a letter protesting the erection of the station from Mrs. C. E. McGee of Columbus, who owns property in the neighborhood, and one from a resident of the East Side, who said he feels filling stations are detrimental to a residential section.

Asks for Plans

Councilman Biggert asked to look over the proposed plans and sketch of the filling station. He declared that according to the sketch the building was a good looking one and that if it were to be built as pictured it would be a credit to the neighborhood. City Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart said the Pure Oil Co. has given the assurance that the station will be as pictured.

Mayor Smith was the next speaker, declaring there are two vital points for council to consider before voting on the legislation. They are, he said, whether the zoning ordinance is to be valid or invalid and the protests of the residents of the section.

The mayor called upon council to observe the law as set forth in the zoning ordinance. There must have been a good reason for passing the ordinance and we should protect the basic principles of law as provided in it, he said. He asserted that the residents of the neighborhood are able to determine whether their section is commercial or residential and that the almost 100 per cent protest indicates they wish to keep it a residential section. He declared that council would set a bad precedent by taking a single property out of a residential zone and making it commercial.

Donithen Again Speaks

Attorney Donithen took the floor again and quoted two court decisions from other sections of the state relative to zoning ordinances. He said that the decisions hold that a property owner has a right to use his or her property in any manner as long as it is not detrimental to the public safety, health and morals. Mr. Donithen said he believed that the city zoning ordinance violates the principles of the Constitution in dictating to a property owner what he can or cannot do with his property.

Mayor Smith arose to argue the point of constitutionality with Mr. Donithen, but the attorney said the courts were the only ones who could pass on constitutionality and that he did not care to debate the matter. Attorney Moloney then suggested that Mr. Donithen take the matter to the courts on the question of constitutionality.

W. C. Beatty, who owns a property in the neighborhood in which a grocery store is operated, said the filling station would interfere with funerals passing the spot. Mrs. Gompf answered, saying the majority of funerals proceed down Vine street and across Washington avenue.

Councilman Biggert was the last speaker. He declared that the city zoning ordinance does give council the right to approve or reject such applications as presented by Mrs. Gompf and suggested that the voting take place. "One thing that's wrong with this country now is that the government is sticking its nose into everybody's business," he declared. "I can't for the life of me see why I should tell that woman what she can or can't do with her property."

Last night was the fourth attempt Mrs. Gompf has made to have her property set within the commercial zone. The proposal was before the city planning commission last summer, before city council last fall, before the planning commission again several months ago and was given its fourth hearing last night. On each occasion Mrs. Gompf has been represented by Alfred Donithen. He said today it has not yet been decided whether the matter will be dropped or pursued further.

Barbers' Petition

Councilman Fabian presented a petition he said was signed by approximately 75 per cent of the licensed barbers of the city, asking that opening and closing hours of barber shops be regulated by legislation. It is proposed, in the petition, to open shops at 8 a. m. and close them at 6 p. m. daily except Saturday, when they would be opened at 8 a. m. and closed at 9 p. m. At the present time they open and close when they see fit, Fabian explained. The proposal was referred to the ordinance and franchise committee for its recommendation.

The ordinance and franchise committee will meet Wednesday night to consider the proposal to set hours for barber shops.

Councilman Biggert, chairman of the waterworks and fire department committee, gave a report of the committee recommending that a competent mechanic be hired for the fire department to take care of the fire alarm system and the motor equipment. He said he understands there are only three men in the city who understand the care of the complicated alarm system.

Mayor Smith said the delay in appointment of a mechanic was due to the slowness of the civil service commission in holding the examination and certifying the names of three men to the safety director for the appointment. He said the examination was held recently but that the names have not yet been certified. He said he did not know whether the examination papers have been graded. The mayor explained the fact that present legislation setting the personnel of the fire department does not provide for a qualified mechanic, an oversight which would be corrected as soon as possible.

John T. Ganoe, automobile mechanic who formerly was a mechanic in the fire department, volunteered information to council on the position, and declared that even though an expert mechanic were hired for the department under the present set-up he could not devote enough time to the alarm system and other equipment because he would be assigned to other regular duties the same as the other firemen. He declared that under present conditions the alarm system and motor equipment are in the hands of "mother luck."

Can Call in Help

Safety Director John V. Ruth said today that Fire Chief T. J. McFarland has been authorized to call in a competent mechanic from outside if an emergency arises that would require his services. At the present, he said, Fireman George Fetter is acting mechanic in the department and that while he may not qualify as an expert he has been able to handle the routine care of the equipment without trouble. He said the problem of hiring a mechanic would be settled as soon as the civil service commission certifies the names of men for the appointment.

Council also voted to sell three municipal bonds to the National City Bank & Trust Co. The bonds were issued to provide funds for payment of two new typewriters and two new filing cabinets for the municipal court. The board of trustees of the sinking fund being unable to buy the bonds because of lack of funds they were offered at private sale. The bid of the National City Bank & Trust Co. was $138.80 for bond No. 1, $102.06 for bond No. 2, and $102.06 for bond No. 3. The bid was the only one received.

Council also authorized Harold Cobb, proprietor of the Marion Flying Service, to make needed repairs at the airport for which he will be given credit on a rental bill of $217 he owes the city.

Cleveland Woman Judge Talks Before Club On Methods of Handling Criminal Cases

FRANKLY and forcefully, a woman told more than 100 women and men gathered at Hotel Harding last evening that "judges administering criminal justice find the hands of justice tied and are limited in the manner of disposing of cases."

The speaker was Judge Mary E. Grossman of the Cleveland municipal court who addressed members and guests of the Marion Altrusa club and guest members of the Marion County Bar association and the occasion was the annual spring guest dinner meeting of the Marion Altrusa club given in the hotel ballroom.

Judge Grossman's subject was "Social Phases of the Administration of Justice," and she confined her talk to the administration of criminal justice in which the person is accused of having committed an offense against the state.

"Many are found guilty of crimes who are not criminals," she said, following her opening statements in which she averred that the court is the greatest social agency there is, and that a social agency is one which comes in contact with a community, recognizes its problems and tries to solve them. "If a court doesn't do this it is no court of justice," she said.

Personal Observations

Following 45 minutes of personal observations as a judge, one who has been reelected to office twice, and making statements which are as startling to some as they were interesting to everyone, Judge Grossman made the plea: "We who are your servants, paid by you, are coming to you to help us solve our problems in order that we may solve the problems of those who come to us."

Community aid in solving problems brought to the courts, problems that require preventive work rather than remedial, was advocated by the speaker whose quiet, unassuming manner before and after the address belied the force and conviction felt by her audience while she was speaking.

The basic preventive work a community can do is among its boys and girls of 15 and 16 years of age, "borderline" youths who go to school until unable to go any longer and then are turned out into society, unfitted to take his or her place, Judge Grossman has found in her years on the Cleveland bench. "We are so proud of our high I. Q.'s, those who get scholarships, but what are we doing with the borderline child?" she asked and went on to urge mothers, teachers, and Sunday school teachers "to cooperate toward raising the child and building character," and completed this phase of her discussion with the statement, "I think they are the greatest 'passers of the buck' I know."

"If we had some kind of training school for these boys and girls (borderline children) as they come out of school, could teach them manual work, something they understand, it would be surprising to know how many jobs there would be for unskilled work," Judge Grossman said, continuing in the same vein to predict that with such a school there would not grow up in mushroom rapidity in large cities, the neighborhood gangs in which a leader has to be "tough" to be a leader, and gradually become a burden on society, exploited by gangsters and racketeers.

Advocates Recreation

She advocated recreational centers where boys and girls learn to mingle naturally with each other instead of meeting on streetcorners, and strongly advocated the teaching of social hygiene in the schools, at least as early as junior high school age, by competent men and women who would teach boys and girls properly and "not what they will learn on the streets."

She discussed quite frankly the cases that came to her as judge of the morals court which she established in 1929 to deal for the most part with young men and young women brought into court on morals charges. "There are more persons infected with social diseases than all other infectious and contagious diseases together," she said. She has found that many have anti-social habits and that "we don't know what to do with these kind of persons, but we do know there is no sense in sending their sort to jail."

"They are a menace to society," she said, "and there ought to be a hospital where there is a cure, or an institution where they could be taken out of circulation," and added, "society owes them something more than a penal institution.

"Many come into court who are unmoral—no ethics, no standards of conduct with whom there mode of living is a question of economics—they are not immoral," Judge Grossman has found, and "they could be taken care of if we had the proper institutions."

For the men who come into court for felonous attacks on children "there is nothing better than the whipping post," in the eyes of the woman-judge.

The habitual drunkard is quite harmless, "not a criminal, just weak-willed," but the man of standing in a community, who drives his car while under the influence of liquor, "is worse than a gun-toter" and "is no better than a murderer," in her opinion.

Summing up her talk she said: "We are apathetic and indifferent and only know something has happened after it happens. . . . The court gets them after the crime is committed. Our work is remedial; your job is to see that the law is enforced."

Judge Grossman brought greetings from the Cleveland Altrusa club, of which she is a charter member. She returned to Cleveland this morning after having been the guest of Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh of East Church street.

C. C. Fisher, dean of the Marion County Bar association and John K. Bartram, one of the young members, and Probate Judge Oscar Gast were among the guests who heard the speaker.

Large representations from the Findlay, Sandusky and Columbus clubs were present, including outstanding women in each community.

Miss Jessie Lindsay, president of the Marion club, presided and introduced Judge Grossman. Interspersing the dinner courses were the following musical groups: Violin, Miss Clara Leffler, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh, "Romance" by Wieniawski, "Scherzo" by Van Goens and "Orientale" by Cui; Mrs. Clara S. Wallace, vocalist, "A May Morning" by Denza," "Ma Li'l Batteau" by Strickland, and "The Wind Song" by Rogers; group singled by Miss Edith Brown with Mrs. Wallace at the piano; piano duos, Mrs. Dombaugh and Miss Grace Cooper, "Cradle Song" by MacFadyen and "Valse Caprice" by Spross.

Miss Ruth Kramer was in charge of programs, Miss Eloise Tschanen was social chairman, and Mrs. Beulah Cathers was in charge of tickets.

The long tables were attractively decorated with bonquets of garden flowers, and at each place was a clever favor, and an attractive program booklet in the Altrusa colors of blue and white with a cover decoration remindful of the spring season.

ADVISED TO EAT BRAN FOR HER CONSTIPATION*
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helps Miss Hanson
Read this enthusiastic, voluntary letter: "Just a line to let you know how much I appreciate Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I was troubled with constipation.* I asked my doctor what to do. He said to eat bran.
"I tried other brands but they weren't so good, so I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and it is just wonderful. It makes delicious muffins, too."—Miss Agnes Hanson, 450 N. Cicero Ave., Chicago, Ill.
ALL-BRAN provides mild "bulk"—missing in the average meal. This delicious cereal also furnishes vitamin B and iron.
The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system. It is often more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.
Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. If not relieved, see your doctor.
Sold by all grocers. ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

(Copyright, 1936, Margaret Bell Houston)

SUPERFICIALLY, the mystery which surrounds Hope Joris, wife of Dirk Joris' elder brother Rupert, seems to touch a young clown, a young cowboy, and a restaurateur named Fazzini in New York. Dirk is determined to solve it and to help Hope—against her wishes, apparently. He has learned of Hope's secret visit to Fazzini from two detectives, with whom he is talking in the car from which they watch the Joris estate on the Hudson.

CHAPTER THIRTY
Sinister Currents.

WOULD you know Fazzini from one of his brothers?" inquired Dirk "From the chef, for instance"

"There was no chef," smiled the lady Dinwiddie

"He was silent and Logan said, "I have also the information regarding Merritt's Wonder Show. You asked me for it some time ago but it took time. The show went broke, it seems, and disbanded down in Rome, Georgia. Akin, an associate of mine in Atlanta, got the facts from the circus bookkeeper before the troupe melted away. While he was not in time to find Merritt, the book-keeper told him all there was to know about Torrobin and the clown.

"Torrobin, he was listed, and his boy, the clown, was known as Roddie. Here's Akin's letter. Shall I hand the flash so you can read it?"

"Tell me what he says," Dirk answered Somehow, he had little interest now in Torrobin and the clown

"You know, of course," said Logan "that this J. Torrobin and his boy are the same pair you had me investigate as T. Jones and his son after the rodeo. I found then they gave practically no address at all to the rodeo booker, and disappeared after the rodeo closed. In the circus they had no address either joined it while it was in Jersey, and lived with the troupe. "It was the boy's dare-devil riding that got them the circus job." (Logan was reading from the letter now.) 'Merritt was under the weather at the time, and Torrobin became a sort of sub-manager and the show was in Jersey Torrobin was heartily disliked by the troupe though the boy was rather a favorite, especially with Senorita Leonor, the equestrienne The boy was indifferent to Leonor, which was just as well. Leonor's previous love had been Carlo, the lion-tamer, and Carlo was not receptive to any change of heart on Leonor's part.

"The boy was injured during his act the night the show started south Merritt, however, had had no intention of taking the act south with him because of Torrobin's unpopularity. The troupe dated all its bad luck from the hiring of Torrobin

"There was certainly bad luck a-plenty, rainy weather not being the least of it Then, just before the show left, both Carlo and Leonor disappeared Nobody knew why at the time, but they realized what foresight the two had shown when Madame Chowdhury, the fortuneteller, was arrested further down the road on charges of blackmail Carlo and Leonor were involved, and the authorities were also out for Torrobin The four had been conducting a form of the old badger game. I understand Leonor was petite and pretty, and acted as a decoy.

"'Merritt's circus had been a clean little show up till then Merritt was already sick, and pretty near broke, and the business of Chowdhury finished him Nobody knows where he went.

"'Torrobin, Leonor and Carlo, are still at large Leonor, it is thought, escaped to her home in Rio de Janeiro Carlo may have gone with her. Torrobin may still be in New York A boy who looked and rode like Roddie, the clown, is said to have pulled down big money in the rodeo there lately."

"Well, said Logan, "that's about all. This J. Torrobin or T. Jones seems to be pretty much of a jinx, Want me to try to get more about him?"

Dirk said no And since their watch at the gate had accomplished its end—"Not the end you think," he heard himself say—it might be discontinued after tonight.

"Mrs. Joris is too ill," he said, "to go out...to need attendance of that kind."

Dinwiddie remarked

"I thought she looked sick I thought she walked like it."

In his room Dirk read again the letter from Logan's associate It contained no further allusion to Senorita Leonor, and no allusion at all to any equestrian substitute she may have had. He had not questioned Hope's account of herself, had not doubted that she was a parson's daughter—a cowboy parson's daughter—in need of work, and finding it for a day in the circus

The Rev. Silas Devine—if such a person existed—must be puzzling now over the telegram regarding a lady named Hope to whom he must speed at once Or it might be that he knew indeed a Hope—a relative, a daughter, even—whom it had seemed safe enough at this distance for one in difficulties to impersonate.

Could not the circus have stopped in El Paso? Might not Leonor have learned there of one Hope Devine?....

Leonor, Carlo and Leonor, thought Dirk.

Dirk knew now on which Fazzini Hope had called. Her visit had not been to Tony, but to Carlo, Tony's brother, the brother who had cleaned out the Araby, the brother who traveled with a circus Carlo was in hiding in Tony's house, and Hope had crept out to him by night, almost too ill to stand.

In hiring Logan and Dinwiddie Dirk had wanted her protected, not accused. Even tonight when these findings had proved so inexorably her place in the puzzle, he had not been willing to give them the key to that place.

Logan and Dinwiddie had laughed at Martin's account of an intruder the night before. They believed it now only in the light of Hope's visit to Fazzini's house. He had come to her one night, and had almost been discovered. She had gone to him the next. That was what they believed.

They did not know what he—Dirk—knew, that the man she had gone to see did not dare leave his room, would not risk discovery of any sort Dirk knew more than this. He knew that Martin was overwrought A man who imagines it his duty to shoot when no such duty has been assigned him, may also imagine other things. Martin, Dirk told himself, had never heard a voice at all

In any case, whoever, whatever she was, Hope—he could not think of her by any other name—was unquestionably in trouble, and ill She might have taken part in Madame Chowdhury's schemes ignorantly, might even be innocently involved, and unable to extricate herself. ("My shield is scarred," she had said, holding the big book in her arms)

He did not know, of course, the name of her people in Rio de Janeiro. She would not give it to him, would spend her strength in denial and terror if he should ask Strange that he who was perhaps her only friend should seem her greatest enemy

Still, certain facts remained Guilty or innocent, she was ill Rupert could not come to her, nor could her family.

She belonged to him, alone.

Now that he knew her secret, he could watch over her with clearer eyes

Graves came the next morning, and learning from Dirk of young Mrs Joris's reluctance to see a physician came to her room ostensibly to give her reassuring details about her husband

Hope he reported afterward to Dirk, had listened attentively.

"She was in bed, and I ordered her to stay there The trouble? Anemia, low blood-pressure, general run-down condition Danger? ... Well, yes if we don't get hold of it But I think we will.

"Rupert, now He's better, on the whole. But he's making no fight What interest he appears to take in living comes in the form of worry over his work. Certain cases he has on hand I want either you or Sanford to go up tomorrow, and reassure him"

Dirk asked Sanford to go. The work had piled on his own desk, and it was nine o'clock that evening before he dismissed a tired secretary and went home.

It was snowing again, steady flakes that froze against his windshield Things were quiet when he reached the house, only Timothy stirring about, preparing to lock up

Mrs. Joris, Timothy said, was not so well had had a sort of sinking spell. They had called Dr Graves. That was at six o'clock She was better now. Mary was with her.

Dirk went up to his room

He was undressing for bed when the door-bell rang He heard Timothy, who had gone upstairs, come down again Timothy's knock sounded presently on Dirk's door

"It's the Rev Silas Devine," said Timothy. "He's just arrived, sir . . by plane"

Dirk pleads a difficult case, tomorrow.

Married Comrades

Madge Learns Basis for Marion's Fears for Ronald.

IN Marion's voice, as she recited the story of Ronald's misfortunes, there was all the tragedy which comes to young things suddenly deprived of some unexpected pleasure on which, in all good faith, they have set their hearts.

I have been so long with these young people of ours, for I count Marion mine also, that I knew, except for death or terrible illness, life could hold no greater frustration for Marion and Ronald than his being compelled to "break his dates" with her for the Derby day festivities at Yale, and her senior dance at Whitney hall.

But I also know so well Marion's generous nature, her high ideals, and the wise, careful training her mother has given her that I was sure the apparent stressing of her personal disappointment was only momentary, and sub-conscious, and that her concern was with the real tragedy which, from his letter, appeared to be threatening Ronald. The next second brought vocal proof of my theory.

Doesn't Really Count

"But all that about my being disappointed over the Derby and our senior dance is just piffle," she said. "Of course, I'm desolated over it, but that doesn't count when you think of what poor Ronald must be going through Things must be pretty bad at his home for him to feel like that. Have you heard anything that would make you think they were in any financial trouble?"

"Not a word," I said truthfully.

"And his mother is just getting over that terrible illness," she went on "Ronald idolizes his mother, you know. He's said so often that she had so hard a time when they were little that he never can be grateful enough to his stepfather for making life so easy and happy for her, for him and Carolyn through all the years. Although I don't think he loves his stepfather as much as he used to, on account of that time—you know"

Marion stopped, patently unwilling to refer further to the unmasking of Sam Brixton's shady, if not really criminal, activities at the time of the kidnaping of herself and Carolyn, and his later doing just preceding the opening of Marion's lock box by Lee Chow.

Wife Doesn't Know

"Yes, I know, dear," I said. "But he has every reason to be grateful to him, and I am sure, when we learn more about it, we will find that Mr. Brixton is keeping his wife in ignorance of his financial trouble, not only because of her illness, but because he has always sheltered her from anything disagreeable."

Marion nodded a vigorous assent.

"She's like a doll wrapped in tissue paper as far as any realization of trouble," she said, and even though my spirits were heavy with anxiety, I had to catch back a smile at this evidence on Marion's part of the eternal tendency of girls to criticise potential "in laws" But she was speaking the truth, and I nodded a hasty assent, while I gave another look at my wrist watch.

"What else did Ronald say, Marion?" I asked, then as her cheeks crimsoned, I hastily added, "that you want to tell me, of course."

Afraid of Lillian

"I want to tell you everything," she asserted stoutly, "but there really isn't much more when it's boiled down. He has taken pages to tell me that though his feelings haven't changed, and will never change, he doesn't think we ought to see each other anymore—at least until he gets on his feet financially, which, he fears, will be a long time. He says that my mother didn't like him any too well before, and that now she'll have no use for him at all But I don't think that's so Do you, Auntie Madge?"

I caught back another smile at this snap judgment of Ronald on Marion's mother, then sighed inadubitably at the gulf which so often yawns between the viewpoints of the younger and the older generations.

"How little he knows your mother!" I said quickly—and truthfully, for I know Lillian's propensity for taking care of "lame ducks." She is a true June Forsyte in that respect, and I knew that Ronald's plight, instead of alienating her further, from the boy, would focus her maternal interest upon him

Why Suicide?

"She probably will look upon him with far more favor than she ever has done," I said. "Now what else was there in the letter that I should know? You must hurry."

"That's all," she replied, except that one thing that's making me so afraid he'll kill himself," she said

"But why in the world should he kill himself just when he's most needed to help?" I asked

"Anybody would think that," she said, "But, you see, he's afraid he can't get a chance to help He says he isn't fitted for anything except to work in a garage, and the filling stations are crammed with college graduates now. An inexperienced man is just up against it. What he's thinking about, I'm sure, is the insurance."

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Summer Food.

In former days, one of the common ailments was dysentery. We used to hear a great deal about it. It is not so familiar now because we know more about hygiene and diet. We all rejoice that "summer complaint" is less common.

Acute intestinal disorder is usually traced to some internal infection, the result of the improper choice of food, faulty eating habits, or the taking of contaminated food. It may be the result of colitis, ulceration of the intestine, or some other chronic intestinal disorder.

Summer diarrhea is often caused by sensitivity to some food, particularly some form of fresh fruit An occasional person is "allergic," or sensitive, to a food which is rich in protein. Because of this sensitivity a severe and persistent diarrhea occurs This form of intestinal upset is medically spoken of as "allergic" diarrhea.

In the beginning there are few symptoms, but sooner or later the victim complains of fatigue, lassitude, indigestion, heart-burn, mental depression, headache, dizziness and perhaps other symptoms In the more severe form of the disorder, neuritis, neuralgia, arthritis, and sick headache may complicate the picture.

There are so many different causes for diarrhea that no one treatment can be suggested as a cure for all attacks.

Since diarrhea in itself is not a disease, but merely one symptom or a sign of a disease, it is important that the underlying cause be determined as soon as possible. For this reason it is unwise to resort to the use of home treatment which has been suggested, perhaps by a well-meaning friend. It is best to consult with your doctor.

There is another reason why I believe it well to do this. As I have indicated diarrhea is a signal that something is wrong in the human machine. What may appear as a trivial ailment, may be nature's warning of some serious disorder.

Heed this warning and take advantage of all that modern medical science has to offer you. In this way you may head off prolonged ill health Often the early recognition of a disease means prompt and complete cure; neglect may lead to chronic trouble, with long continued suffering and physical disability.

Lucas' Four-Hit Pitching Helps Pirates Trim Reds

RED SOX MOUND MAN SETS SAME PACE TO DEFEAT SENATORS

"Old Men" of Majors Stage Reunion by Turning Out Brilliant Work.

By The Associated Press

One foot on the bench and the other in the minors the old men will come back on sunny days

Consider a few of them Charlie Grimm of the Cubs, aged 36, Kiki Cuyler, Reds, 36, Elbon Allen, Cubs, 32; Red Lucas, Pirates, 32, Heinie Manush, Red Sox, 34; Bob Grove, Red Sox, 36, Bill Terry, Giants, 37, and a few more, like Sam Leslie, Giants, or Fred Ostermueller, Red Sox, who are getting near the age when baseball players are considered old men.

It's "Comeback Day"

Yesterday in the majors, the old boys had a reunion Lucas, once the pride of Redland field, went back there with the Pirates and pitched a four-hit ball game against the Reds to win 9 to 2

Ostermueller, the much discussed question-mark of the Red Sox pitching staff, did the same against the Senators and Boston won, 6 0, to cut the Yankees margin to one and one-half games

Leslie, who made five hits in five times at bat against the Phillies Sunday, gave the Giants a 1 to 0 victory over the same club by hanging out a home run, and Ripper Collins, condemned to the bench by the excellent play of young Johny Mize, won a ball game for the Cards when he came up out of the dugout in the ninth and hit a pinch single to give the Cards a 2-1 win over the Cubs.

Even Grimm, who counted himself out of the game last year, was back in there yesterday and got a double and a single in three times up, while Allen, who was bartered away at the waiver price several years ago because he had to wear a back support, made his debut with the Cubs by pounding out three of the 10 hits made off Paul Dean.

Youngsters Do Their Share

Youngsters held forth in the other two games, however Leo Ross, 19-year-old rookie from the North Carolina Textile league, pitched the Athletics to a 10-7 victory over the Yankees after the A's had taken three straight flouncings and Johnny Lanning, rookie Boston Bees' hurler, blanked the Dodgers 8-0

So far this season, the old men have held the spotlight. Grove's pitching performance has been the highlight of the season, while the great batting feat of Tommy Lazzeri Saturday and Sunday against the Athletics is likely to keep the youngsters swinging for years. Yesterday, however, Lazzeri was limited to one hit after hitting six home runs and driving in 16 runs in two days.

One of the most surprising moves of the season was the acquisition of Johnny Vergez, veteran third baseman, by the Cards from the Phillies. Leaders for years in movement toward young players, the St. Louis team finds itself in the position of having to drop one of its youngsters in order to make room for a veteran turned away by the Giants and then the Phils

Tilden, Here for Exhibition Tonight, Tells of Country's Increasing Interest in Tennis

Booked for Play at Park Pavilion; Two Talks Set for Today.

BY BOB BYRD

"Big Bill" Tilden, for many years a dominant figure in the world of tennis, arrived in Marion last night with his troupe of other ranking stars of the sport in preparation for exhibition contests tonight at 8 30 at Crystal Lake park pavilion.

The big sun-browned net star also was to appear before two Marion groups for talks today: At noon he was to speak briefly at a meeting of the Marion Rotary club in Hotel Harding and this afternoon at an assembly in Harding High school sponsored by the Hi-Y organization.

Tilden gave a private exhibition of good nature this morning when he was aroused from sleep at Hotel Harding by a reporter seeking an interview. Dismissing an apology for disturbing him with the remark, "Oh, I should have been up by this time anyhow," he answered the reporter's questions in a manner that again proved the adage that the bigger the man the easier he is to talk with.

Other Stars In Troupe

Other members of Tilden's troupe here for tonight's exhibition are Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles, one of the top ranking women players of the country, Jimmy McClure of Indianapolis, Indiana, winner of the national table tennis crown, Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex, southern professional champion and former intercollegiate doubles champion,

BILL TILDEN

A. H Chapin Jr. of New York City, at one time one of the first 10 ranking amateurs of the country and now a professional player.

Tilden this morning described tennis as probably the most universal amateur sport He said the rapid growth of municipal and other public courts throughout this country in recent years has still not met the demand of fans

He pointed to the fact that 30 nations annually compete in the Davis cup matches, deciding the world amateur team championship as evidence of the world-wide interest taken in tennis

"Tennis is a very strong sport in this country, but it probably is most popular in Germany, where there is great public and playing interest," he said.

Predicts Continued Progress

He predicted tennis would continue to grow rapidly in this country, especially in player interest

Tilden also predicted that tennis competition in the Olympics, dropped more than a decade ago, will be resumed within the next few years.

The tour that brings Tilden and his troupe to Marion began in January and probably will end the middle of the summer The troupe is visiting a majority of the states The members came here from Williamsport, Pa., and will go from Marion to Clarksburg W Va., for an exhibition tomorrow night.

Tilden from 1920 to 1926 held the American amateur championship, was the first American to win the men's singles crown at Wimbledon in England. Three times he triumphed there, first in 1920 and the third time exactly 10 years later For 11 years, from 1920 through 1930, he was regarded as the mainstay of this country's Davis cup team.

He won the men's national doubles championship five times with three different partners, and has won almost every important tennis championship in the world.

Classifies Championships

Tilden this morning ranked the championship amateur tennis events of the world, placing the Wimbledon matches in England at the top of the list for individual championships He ranked the American championship second and the French championship as third The Davis cup matches represent the world's amateur team championship, he said.

Masked Terror Loser to Berry in Rough Mat Tilt

Wild Red Berry of Pittsburg, Kans, added another victory to his colorful but hectic career when he scored an all-decisive one fall over the Masked Terror at the Shovel gymnasium last night. Body slamming his opponent until the Terror was groggy, Berry slapped on a neck-breaker which gave him the fall and match at the end of 19 minutes It was necessary to carry the unconquerable masked grappler to the dressing room, and he hadn't come out of it even after the crowd left the arena following the announcement that he was unable to continue

Jack Curtis, youthful Pittsburg Mississippian, out-punched, outwrestled and out-smarted the veteran Sailor Moran to take two straight falls He was awarded the first when the Sailor was disqualified at the insistence of boxing commission members who witnessed the match from ringside

The St Louis sailor was disqualified for low-down punches and lost the second and deciding fall through the cleverness of his opponent

The Masked grappler attempted but with little success to use a smother and choke hold on Berry Berry and the Terror exchanged punches throughout the match but the self-styled Kansas wildcat was on the receiving end of most of the rough stuff When he finally gained an advantageous hold his opponent usually resorted to hair-pulling to break his grip

Evidently disgusted with his progress Berry waved Referee Tom Temple aside and made good his boast that "I can lick that guy without a referee in the ring" Referee Temple became an interested spectator as Berry pounded the Terror to the floor and delivered a hefty punt to his jaw. Picking up the groggy opponent, Berry made short work of him, as he used a tough series of body slams Lifting the Terror over his shoulders, Berry bounced him to the mat repeatedly and finally finished the scrap with the neck breaker

The capacity crowd enjoyed Jack Curtis' clever wrestling exhibition with Sailor Moran. Moran's foul punches, as he held Curtis to the mat with a hammerlock, brought fans to their feet in protest. As a result the first fall went to Curtis as his opponent was disqualified Curtis used a leg spread and body bounce to aggravate the Sailor at the start of the second round Irked by the Sailor's rough display, Jack retaliated with a barrage of rights which drove Moran through the ropes Curtis ended the scrap at the 10-minute mark when he shoved Moran, face first, into the ropes Falling to the mat behind him, Curtis catapulted Moran over his back and scored the fall with a body press as the Sailor hit the canvas in the center of the ring

Speedy Shaffer of East St. Louis and Lon Chaney of Indianapolis battled to a fast and scrappy draw in the 20-minute preliminary. Shaffer was the aggressor most of the way, with Chaney registering often by the use of his molars

Injury Places Derby Winner On Sidelines

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 26 — The race for three-year-old turf honors was a wide open affair again today as a result of the injury which has placed Morton L Schwartz's Bold Venture on the sidelines for the remainder of the year.

The winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness bowed a tendon in his right foreleg yesterday while working out at Belmont Park Although the bow was not a bad one, Trainer Max Hirsch declared there was no chance of getting the son of St Germans back to the races this year.

"It's just one of the misfortunes of racing," declared Hirsch who conditioned Bold Venture for his Derby and Preakness victories "Naturally it's a hard blow to take but there's nothing we can do about it."

Bold Venture was being prepped for the June 6 running of the $50 000 Belmont Stakes, which figured to be the race of the year

The Gumps By Gus Edson

UTILITIES LEAD 3 POINT RALLY

Rails Cling to Advance Which They Initiated Before Buying Spree.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, May 26—A late ... for utilities brought a revival ... of activity in today's stocks market that put the ticker tape behind ... transactions and lifted leaders in fractions to around 3 points.

The rails had led an early advance which they held throughout. Dullness prevailed until the last 15 minutes when buyers descended in force. Transfers approximated ...,000 shares.

Among the livelier stock advances were those of Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, American Telephone, General Motors, Chrysler, Public Service of New Jersey, North American, Columbia Gas, American Power & Light, Consolidated Edison, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, J. I. Case, International ... and Omnibus Corp.

The steels, oils, mines and merchandising stocks were hesitant most of the day.

While most quarters believe that the current slipping of the output ... is entirely seasonal, and that growing demand will keep steel makers busy for the remainder of the year, some buyers and sellers in the industry were of the opinion that it might be difficult to hold ... operating rates and prices at the same time.

The French franc, at the beginning of transactions in foreign currencies, was unchanged at 6.58½ cents and sterling was ⅛ of a cent firmer at $4.95½.

LAST OF MAY WHEAT BRINGS PRICE SLASH

Quotations Drop 5-Cent Limit in Selling Flood at Closing Hour.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 26—Acute weakness of prices, instead of a threatened market squeeze, distinguished today the end of the month's pit trading in May wheat.

A collapse of 5 cents a bushel, the extreme limit which exchange rules permit, was witnessed in the final few minutes of business. Floods of selling orders overwhelmed brokers at the last, and as a result trading had to be suspended with many orders unexecuted.

Wheat closed excited one cent to 5¼ under yesterday's finish, the day's bottom level, May 90¾, July 83¾@84, corn ¾ down to 1¼ up, May 64¼@¾, oats ¼@1¾ off, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

MIDDLETOWN, O., May 26—Directors of the American Rolling Mill Co., meeting yesterday ordered a 1½ per cent dividend, amounting to $1.50, on six per cent preferred stock, to holders of record July 1, and payable July 15.
